ROOT MAY HEAD SUPREME COURT.

Chief Justice Fuller to Retire, Washington Believes, to Make Way for Secretary of State.

TAFT WOULD NAME HIM.

Succession Depends on Plans of the Veteran Jurist, Who Has Served in Highest Tribunal for Twenty Years.

BY RAYMOND.

Washington, D. C., May 17.—[Special.]—Melville Root, chief justice of the Supreme court of the United States.

It sounds well, doesn't it? It may be true some day and before long. In other words, there is an understanding here that the secretary of state is slated for the position of chief justice provided the appointment comes in the way either of Mr. Roosevelt or of Mr. Taft, and also provided, of course, that the present chief justice, Melville W. Fuller of Chicago, chooses to take advantage of the law and retire on full pay.

In such a matter as this no one is authorized to speak, either for President Roosevelt or Secretary Taft, and so far as known Chief Justice Fuller has not yet definitely announced that he would retire at any particular time. There is a strong belief, however, in the inner circle of official life here that, in the event of the nomination and election of Secretary Taft, Chief Justice Fuller will retire from the bench and allow either Roosevelt or Taft himself to fill the vacancy. In that event it is almost certain that Elihu Root will be the favored man.

Taft No Longer Seeks Position.

Most lawyers look upon the position of chief justice of the Supreme court of the United States as the summit of professional ambition. If the place had become vacant during the earlier years of the Roosevelt administration there is scarcely any doubt that Secretary Taft would have been appointed. When he decided to accept the advice of his friends and make a canvass for the presidency the secretary of war promised them that if there should become a vacancy as chief justice he would not accept the office if offered to him until after he had been defeated in the Chicago convention. Thereupon the knowing ones said Secretary Root was slated for the place if the vacancy should occur; and the understanding now is that Mr. Taft, if elected president, will make the same selection as President Roosevelt would if the vacancy should occur between now and inauguration day next year.

Only Eight Have Had Honor.

A chance to appoint the chief justice does not come often to a president. In point of fact since the foundation of the government there have been only eight chief justices, and since that there have been but five alto-gether. The list of chief justices of the Supreme court is as follows:

John Jay, New York, Sept. 26, 1789.
John Rutledge, South Carolina, July 1, 1795.
Oliver Ellsworth, Connecticut, March 4, 1796.
John Marshall, Virginia, Jan. 31, 1801.
Roger B. Taney, Maryland, March 5, 1836.
Salmon P. Chase, Ohio, Dec. 6, 1864.
Morrison R. Waite, Ohio, Jan. 21, 1874.
Melville W. Fuller, Illinois, July 30, 1888.

Eligible to Retirement.

From this list it will be seen that Chief Justice Fuller is exceeded in the length of his term only by famous John Marshall, who did so much to make our Supreme court great, and by Roger B. Taney, the Maryland justice, whose tour of duty at the head of the court covered a stormy period of a quarter century just prior to the civil war. Under the law the judge of any United States court who has arrived at the age of 70 years and has been ten years on the bench is eligible to retirement on full pay. Chief Justice Fuller celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday last February. He took the oath of office Oct. 8, 1888, so that before the next presidential election he will have rounded out an honorable service of twenty years as chief justice of the Supreme court. Mr. Fuller is good for many a long year upon the bench so far as appearances go, but after a score of years in such a place, concluding as it did an active professional career, it is natural to suppose that the white haired chief justice is about ready to take a rest.

Fuller an Ardent Democrat.

He is a democrat and people who remember him in the old days in Chicago are aware that he was an ardent one. He was appointed by President Cleveland during his first term and it is well known he still retains a vast amount of admiration for the only democratic president since the civil war. It was natural, therefore, that Chief Justice Fuller should be closely identified with the gold democratic wing of the party.

If Bryan had been elected in 1896 Chief Justice Fuller would not have thought of retiring. If Parker had been elected in 1904 it is quite likely there might have been another democratic chief justice now sitting on the bench.

Opposed to Bryan Appointee.

Ordinarily it would be difficult to suppose that Chief Justice Fuller would permit such a democrat as Bryan to nominate his successor. Time softens all things, however, and the chief justice, being a democrat, might like to have a democratic successor. For that reason if for no other it is supposed that the chief justice will fill out his term of twenty years in October next and then wait a month to find out how the election goes. If Bryan should be elected he could choose between him and Roosevelt, and if Taft should be chosen the chief justice could make his choice as between Roosevelt and Taft.

I know of no one who has assumed to say that the chief justice intends to resign during the coming year, and yet there are those who believe this will be the outcome. In any event it is scarcely probable that Chief Justice Fuller would remain until the end of the next administration. He would then be 76 years of age, and man nowadays like to take things easy before reaching the four score period.

Root a Popular Choice.

As to Elihu Root, there can be but one mind. His nomination for the chief justiceship, either by Roosevelt or by Taft, would surely prove immensely popular. He is 62 years of age now, but he is admirably suited for the work to which he would be called at the head of the Supreme court. With the exception of the time he has spent in the cabinets of Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt

TAFT IS THE MAN, GOVERNORS AGREE

State Leaders at Conference in Washington Think the War Secretary Will Be Nominated.

PREDICT BUT ONE BALLOT

Sentiment Found the Same from Pacific to Atlantic with the Exception of a Few Scattering Districts.

Washington, D. C., May 17.—[Special.]—All the governors who attended the conference at the White house during the last week, with the exception of those from Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, and New York, are of the opinion that Secretary Taft will be nominated either on the first ballot or by acclamation. Both republicans and democrats stated in interviews that the fight for the nomination was practically over and that Mr. Taft would be the nominee of his party and in all probability be opposed by Mr. Bryan.

Every republican governor who thus expressed himself believes that the secretary of war will lead a united party to victory at the polls in November. Gov. Harris was entirely confident of Taft's carrying Ohio by as great a majority as that with which President Roosevelt swept the state, and Gov. Fort declared that he would carry New Jersey and New York.

Will Carry Ohio.

"Secretary Taft is the strongest man the party can nominate, and he will carry the state of Ohio," said Gov. Harris. "He is a model candidate, as he has had both judicial and administrative experience of the highest order. He is the most popular and the ablest man in Ohio. I have not the slightest doubt that he will appeal to the entire country in the election as he has to those who live in his home state and have known him since his youth. Mr. Taft will be elected and Ohio will continue republican."

Henry A. Buchtel, governor of Colorado, was not less emphatic. "Secretary Taft will receive the support of the ten delegates of Colorado in the convention," said he. "He is the strongest man the party can nominate in order to win the election. Well balanced and progressive, he is an ideal candidate. Colorado is a Roosevelt state, and now that the president has declined to run again the people are with Mr. Taft and he will carry the state."

What Chance Would Bryan Have?

"The American people have become so used to seeing things done that they do not intend to stop and turn back now," said Gov. Sheldon of Nebraska. "Taft is the man to keep things going. Why should the American people think of electing Bryan? The senate will continue to be republican in any event, and he could not hope to get through any legislation except that to which the republican party would subscribe."

"Secretary Taft is today one of the greatest men in the world," said Gov. Dawson of West Virginia. "He has made a record in the Philippines humanity may be proud of. He was a fine judge and a fine executive officer—a rare combination. In addition he has good common sense. His heart is as big as his brain. He is the most available candidate. He will be nominated on the first ballot, in my opinion, and his nomination means his election. The country is with the president and his policies and it will not turn them down in this crisis."

Taft on the First Ballot.

Gov. Woodruff of Connecticut—Taft will be nominated on the first ballot, if not by acclamation. New England is for him and will support him by big majorities in the election.

Gov. Gooding of Idaho—The west is overwhelmingly for Taft and I believe he will sweep it into the republican column in November. He is the strongest man the party can nominate. Millions of Roosevelt supporters will vote for him.

Gov. Hoch of Kansas—Kansas has been for Secretary Taft from the first, and it will be found with him at election time. I have no doubt of his election. His experience, abilities, and personality appeal to the country.

Gov. Warner of Michigan—Michigan is for Taft. The people of my state are for him and what he and the president represent. I have not the slightest doubt that with him at the head of the ticket the republican party will carry the election.

Gov. Floyd of New Hampshire—My choice is between Roosevelt and Taft.

Roosevelt Man Favors Secretary.

Gov. Cutler of Utah—I must say that it looks like Taft, and when he is nominated he will be elected. I have always been a Roosevelt man.

Gov. Albert E. Mead of Washington—The Pacific coast is with Secretary Taft and the president. He is the man to be nominated because he is surest of carrying the election. He will sweep the Pacific coast because our people out there want Roosevelt policies carried out.

Gov. George Curry of New Mexico—It's all over but the shouting. I don't know whether the opposing candidates will show their weakness in convention. What is the use of fighting after being beaten? I should not be surprised to see Secretary Taft nominated by acclamation. The southwest is for him.

Gov. Johnson of Minnesota—The democratic nominee will have Secretary Taft as his opponent.

Gov. Noel of Mississippi—Mississippians are pleased that Mr. Taft and Mr. Bryan are to be nominees. They are big men.

Louisiana for Bryan.

Gov. Blanchard of Louisiana—Louisiana is for Bryan. The democrats of the country have concluded that Mr. Taft will be his opponent.

Gov. Folk of Missouri—Bryan is Missouri's candidate of course, and he will be nominated. So will Secretary Taft.

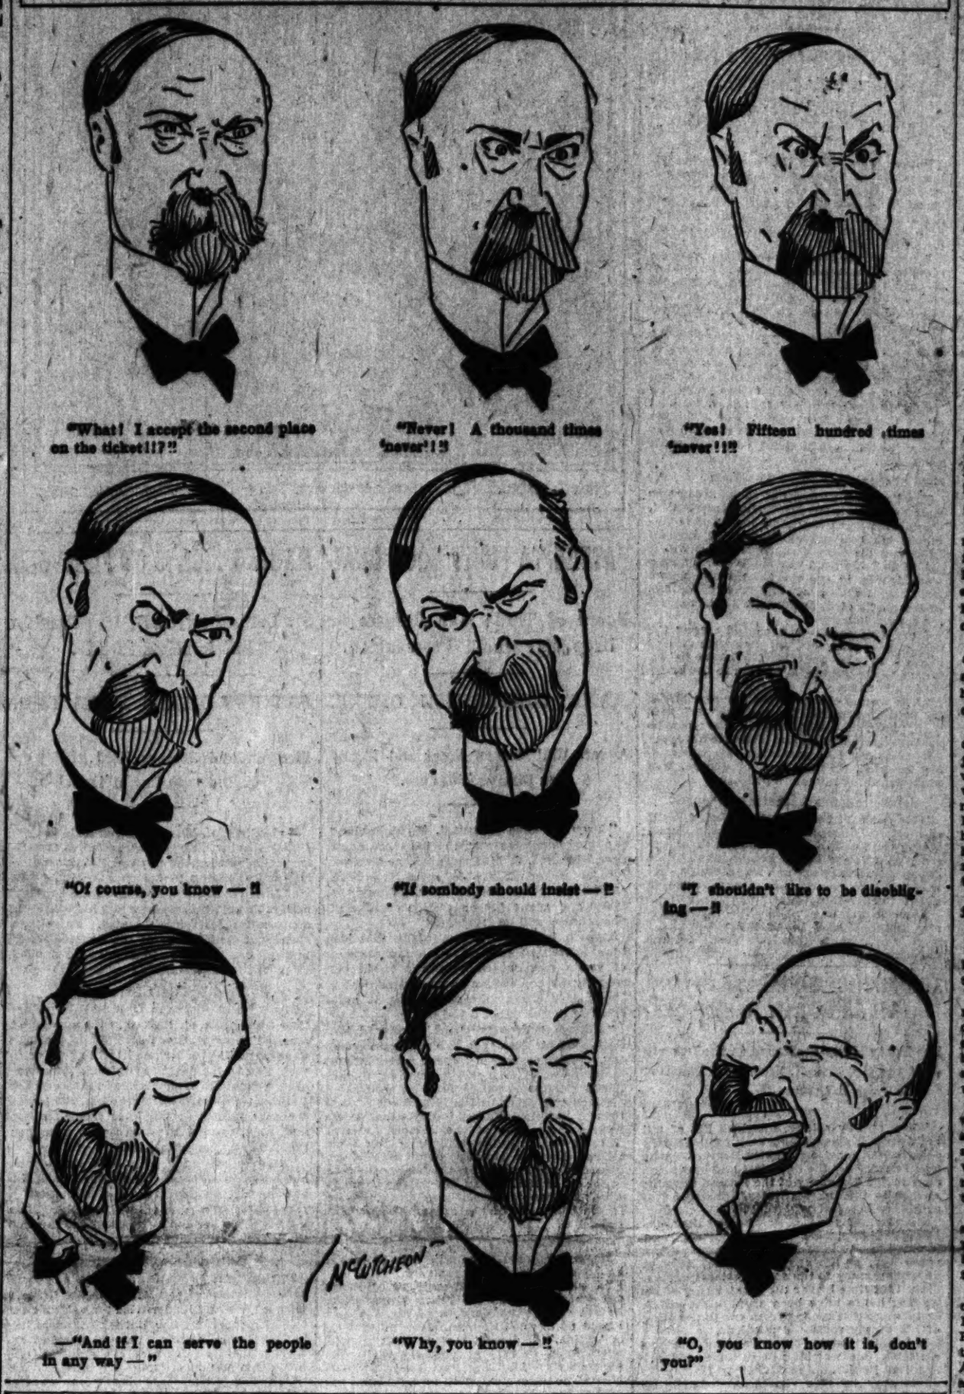
Gov. Hanly of Indiana—I am for Fairbanks and I have no second choice.

Gov. Deneen of Illinois—Illinois has instructed for Cannon.

Ex-Gov. Hill of Maine—Every delegate from Maine will vote for Secretary Taft in the convention and he will be nominated on the first ballot. In my mind his election is a certainty.

Gov. Fort of New Jersey—I believe Secretary Taft will be nominated on the first ballot. He will have a united party behind him and will be elected. The east will support him. New Jersey and New York will give him majorities. He will make a great campaigner.

AN INTERVIEW WITH MR. FAIRBANKS ON THE VICE PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATION.



SOCIALISTS DRYS? YES AND NO

National Convention Indorses, Then Slams Prohibition.

ALL A MISTAKE, THEY SAY.

Delegates Stop Marseillaise, Even, to Reverse First Vote.

The socialist national convention in the last two minutes of its existence yesterday gave itself a shock which some of its members will remember as long as they live.

The socialist national convention placidly and unanimously adopted a resolution pledging the party to the absolute prohibition of the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors. A few minutes later a vigilant delegate from Milwaukee discovered the horrible mistake, and warned the comrades in a most dramatic manner of what they had done. All previous records were immediately broken by the speed with which the convention reversed its action.

All day the delegates listened to and fought over committee reports, and when, early in the evening, the report of the Finnish translator was brought on and was seen to be a voluminous work, a motion was made and unanimously carried that it be adopted without reading and without discussion.

Doubter Startles Comrades.

Comrade Victor Berger of Milwaukee, however, remembered that the Finnish element in the party is enthusiastic on the prohibition question and hastened to scan the report for objectionable recommendations.

The convention just had decided that its work was finished, had given three rousing cheers for the "social revolution," and was singing the "Marseillaise," when the searcher's fears were confirmed.

He sprang on top of a table and broke up the singing of the party hymn with lusty shouts. The convention, for the seventy-sixth time during the day, was thrown into an uproar, but above all the noise Comrade Berger made himself heard.

"Comrades! Comrades!" he cried. "What an awful mistake we have made. Listen! This is a recommendation we have adopted. The socialist national convention has taken this action. Listen! 'We therefore recommend that a plank prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors be inserted in the party platform.' Why, that is enough to wipe the party off the map."

There seemed to be no intention on the part of the delegates to have the party wiped off the map, and after a moment's breathless silence the convention unanimously undid its rash act, swung again into the singing of the "Marseillaise," and crowded in an enthusiastic throng around Comrade Berger, congratulating him on his noble work.

Wrangle Over Woman's Suffrage.

Besides its amusing ending the most interesting feature of the closing session was a bitter wrangle on the question of woman's suffrage. For over an hour the question of whether the socialist party should undertake an active propaganda for woman's suffrage or whether it should concentrate its efforts on a strictly socialistic propaganda was debated vigorously, sometimes by five or six men and women at once. Through it all the chairman hammered incessantly with his gavel and proclaimed for several minutes at a time in foghorn tones that unless there was order at once nothing would be done.

The report of the woman's committee was read by Comrade Mila Tupper Maynard, a placid delegate from Colorado. It recommended the appointment of a committee of five with power to appoint a national organizer and to conduct an active propaganda for woman's suffrage. It was moved that it be adopted and the motion was about to be put when Comrade Laura B. Payne of Texas rose to remark she had a minority report to read.

Warns Against Feminine Bolt.

From her first sentence it was obvious that there would be some little bickering before the report of the next committee could be taken up.

She said the adoption of the majority report would be "disastrous to the movement"; that socialism should be "the expression of the working class regardless of sex," and that the adoption of the resolution would result in the formation of a separate woman's party.

After an exciting debate the majority report was adopted.

An important action taken by the convention was the adoption of a resolution recommending the creation of an associated socialistic press service to supply party papers with news of interest to socialists.

SHOOTS MAN WHO THREATENS TO DRAW PISTOL FROM POCKET

Edward Corrigan Probably Fatally Wounded by Patrolman William Cook at an Early Hour This Morning.

While making a motion as if to draw a revolver, Edward Corrigan, alias "Dutch," well known to the police, was shot and probably fatally wounded by Patrolman William Cook near Forty-seventh street and Center avenue early this morning. Corrigan was taken to St. Bernard's hospital. The bullet entered his abdomen.

According to Cook, Corrigan, with three companions, was standing in Forty-eighth street. The policeman ordered them to move along. Corrigan started to walk away. After he had gone a few steps he halted and stood in a doorway.

Cook at once followed him. Corrigan put his hand back and at the same time threatened to shoot the policeman. Cook stepped back just as Corrigan's hand was put into his pocket. Cook fired one shot. Corrigan's friends fled.

Cook hurried to the patrol box and notified the Stockyards police station. Corrigan was taken to the hospital. There was no revolver found in his pocket.

Inspector Clancy of the stockyards district praised Cook, saying that Corrigan was known to be a bad character. He said that he believed he had hidden his revolver as Cook went for the patrol wagon. Corrigan has been arrested many times.

CHICAGO IS TO BE SHOCKED

Two Women with Directoire Gowns Almost Ready to Do It.

SURE TO BE SEEN BY FALL.

Slit Sheath Skirts Are Headed This Way from Paris.

The directoire gown that has been shocking the police and creating general havoc in Paris and London is headed for Chicago—nay, it already has arrived. Two specimens of the sensational style are known to be concealed "in our midst," the owners not having had sufficient courage to wear them in public.

It is opined by the persons who build clothes for women in Chicago that the directoire gown is destined to become the rage in this city, though it will take time. About next fall when the tourists return from abroad it will be nothing but directoire gowns, they say.

Two Made for Chicago Women.

Richard Pollak, proprietor of a women's tailoring establishment at 1551 Michigan avenue, is an enthusiast over the new style. But he is disappointed by the seeming hesitancy of Chicago women in donning the garment.

"I have made two of them within the last month for two women of Chicago who are most exquisite dressers," said Mr. Pollak. "They always wear the latest and most artistic creations. I made them directoire gowns that were beauties. I sent them to their homes. Then I heard nothing. I listened, but I heard nothing. So I telephoned to one of the women and asked how she liked her directoire gown. She said she liked it, but she has not worn it outside of her boudoir. She admits she dropped her nerve at the last moment.

"Then I telephoned the other woman and asked her how she liked the gown. She liked it all right, but her husband, I believe, does not. But they will wear them yet—these women. All of them will be wearing directoire gowns next fall after they get home from Europe and know that they are all the rage over there. It always takes time in Chicago, but after that—O, my!"

New Gown Described.

Mr. Pollak consented to describe the directoire gown.

"It is simple," he said. "The gown is slit on each side from the knee down and underneath the woman wears trousers, just like a man. It is pretty and nothing could be more modest. I see that the foreign dispatches tell about the women's stockings showing through the slits. That is possible. Of course, in such a case the woman leaves off the trousers. That is all a matter of taste."

Mrs. S. Lebeau, 2128 Michigan avenue, said that several Directoire gowns are on their way to Chicago from Paris and will arrive the latter part of the month.

"But it remains to be seen whether Chicago will take to the style," she said. "There's no telling in advance what Chicago is going to think about anything. Chicago reserves her opinion."

KILLS YOUNG BOY WHEN BOTH AGREE

Henry Amann Slays 12 Year Old Offspring of Mrs. George Knobel, Fancying Him to Be His Son.

TRIES TO END OWN LIFE.

Man Declares That Youth Bared His Breast and Went to Sleep, Knowing That He Was to Die.

After baring his breast for the fatal stroke and closing his eyes in sleep to await its coming, a 12 year old boy met his death in Fort Sheridan Saturday afternoon at the hand of a paralytic whom he had been persuaded to accept as his father.

This most pathetic of death compacts was revealed when the man, weak from his affliction and with two gashes over his own heart staggered into the army reservation early yesterday morning seemingly in a delirium and gave directions for the finding of the boy's body.

His story was not believed, but shortly after daybreak searchers found the lad lying at the foot of a tree, the smile of slumber on his lips, a bunch of violets on his cheek, and one sharp cut directly over his heart.

For a time, satisfied that the lad whom he called his son had been cared for, the injured man persisted in a silence that prevented any clear grasp of the circumstances which led up to the tragedy. He would not tell his name, his address, or that of his relatives. His only admission was that he and the boy agreed to die together, that his one useful hand held the knife that carried death on its blade, and that he had tried to kill himself.

"Give me a knife now. I will finish the job," he declared.

Tells Reason for Act.

It was not until the body of the boy had been brought to his bedside that he consented to talk of the reasons for his acts.

Then, piece by piece, as he was interviewed now by surgeons, nurses, and county officials, he told his story. Slowly it was gathered into consecutive order and its details bore out the look of mental and spiritual anguish that shone from the eyes of the wounded man.

As it became known those of the people whom he mentioned was found in Chicago, a new light was thrown upon his history, and, while it showed that the affliction from which he suffered must have affected his mind, the story was robbed of none of its tragic features.

His name was the first fact he gave. He said that he was Henry Rudolph Amann, 48 years old, a German by birth and a musician by profession. He declared that he believed the boy was his son.

The boy, it developed later, was the son of Mrs. Marie Knobel, who now lives at 765 Racine avenue, and her husband, George Knobel, who died in 1899. It was admitted that the affection which he displayed toward Amann whom at times he called "Uncle" and at other times "Henry," was that of a child for his father. He feels his mother to go with him wherever his fate might lead. There was, however, no blood relationship, and it was conceded that the child had been led into that belief only through his blind, trusting love for the man.

Story Begins in Germany.

The story had its beginning in Kirchhofen, Baden Baden, Germany, where Amann and George Knobel were friends. At about the same time they left the "Vaterland" and came to America. Amann married in St. Louis and there his wife and two children died. Accidentally he met Knobel, who he had not seen for years and was taken into his home.

In 1899 Knobel died and the widow with Amann came to Chicago. Two years later there occurred the paralytic stroke that prevented Amann from continuing to earn money by giving lessons on the violin and playing in restaurants as he had formerly. The widow, in stanch friendship, supported him and her three children by doing washing and rough housework. Occasionally he received small remittances from two brothers and a sister, Eugene, Otto, and Marie, who still live in Kirchhofen, but they did not cover his necessary expenses.

Two or three times he quarreled with Mrs. Knobel, and after the most heated of these disputes he left Chicago and took with him the boy, Walter, who was strongly attached to him. They went to San Francisco shortly after the earthquake there, but after a short stay returned to Mrs. Knobel's home.

Recalls Man's Threats.

The cause of the return is explained differently by the two. Amann said that the widow wrote to him saying that she wanted them to come back, while Mrs. Knobel said that he wrote threatening that she would never see her son again if she did not send him $125 in money and the tickets for their trip to Chicago. This was accompanied, according to her assertion, by a demand that had been often made previously that she should marry him. She wrote him that she could not marry him, she said, but sent the money and the tickets.

In January a final quarrel occurred. Amann struck her in the face and ordered her to leave her home. He went away from the house, but returned to get Walter, whom he took with him. Together they went to the home of an acquaintance, Herman Fiedler, 1012 Otto street, to whom he declared that if shelter were not provided he would kill himself and the boy.

They were given a room, where they were allowed to cook their meals, and the boy continued his attendance at the Hawthorne school. Efforts were made by his mother, his brother, George, 15 years old, and his sister, Amanda, 18 years old, to persuade him to return to his home, but he declared that he would remain with Amann.

Rent was to have been paid for the room, but the only money received by Amann was a draft for $40, which he exhausted without meeting the debt. Other small obligations piled up, and the inability to settle them, it developed later, played a part in his being driven into the melancholy of the last few days.

Say Good-by Together.

Friday morning he left the Fiedler home with the boy, but the story of their travels during the next thirty-six hours was told best in his own German accent as he lay strapped to a little cot in the Fort Sheridan hospital.

"We had talked it all over," he said in a half whisper, broken by gasps caused by a seeming illness that has not been diagnosed by the physicians, "and we could see no hope. He wanted to go with me. I told him I was going to say good-by to everybody and he said he would, too, and he would go with me.

"We went to the little saloon on Roscoe street where we sometimes used to go and we said we would have one last drink while we were alive together. I had a schoppen of wine and he had his little glass.

"Then we took the electric car to Evanston, and at Church street got on the Milwaukee electric. We got off at Lake Bluff and set right out into the woods. We walked all afternoon picking flowers, and then we came to some boathouses and we sat down there and we wrote letters. I had stamped envelopes with me and I wrote to my brothers and my friends telling them what I was going to do.

Mailed Letters Home.

"We walked to the railroad depot and mailed them and then went back to the boathouse. I couldn't do it then. I showed him how to make flat stones skip on the water, and while he was doing it I tried to get away from him.

"He saw me and ran and caught me. 'I know you were trying to run away from me. I don't want you to,' he told me, and after that he would not go one step away. He wanted me to finish it for both of us then, but I couldn't. We went to Lake Bluff and got some sandwiches and then we wandered back into the woods at dark and he slept on my arm.

"In the morning we went on picking flowers again, and I was telling him all the Latin names of the flowers, and so we went on till noon. Then we went into some town with a winding road and he bought himself some candy. He broke a tooth and when we went back into the woods he kept saying it hurt and that he was sleepy.

Tells of Death Agreement.

"We went down near the fort and rolled our coats up for pillows and laid down by a tree. He made me promise not to go away from him. I told him if he was not there I would jump in the lake or anything and he made me promise not to. I told him I would put a knife in my heart and he made me promise I would put it in his heart first when he was asleep.

"He unbuttoned his own sweater he had on and his vest and his shirt and showed me the place. Then he helped me unbutton mine, and he went to sleep with his hand on his heart. I lay still a long time, and then I took my knife in my hand. I measured just where his heart would be and put the knife just soft there so he wouldn't wake up. Then I pushed hard.

"I pulled it out quick and struck at my own heart twice. The hot blood fell in his face, he sat up and threw his arms around my neck.

"'Farewell, Henry,' he cried, and kissed me twice, and then I didn't know any more. I just saw him lying there smiling. I didn't know any more till I found myself here."

Appears at Fort Sheridan.

Staggering, half falling, Amann was seen about 8 o'clock yesterday morning by Private Sage of D trop of the Thirteenth cavalry, making his way across the parade ground to the post, half a mile from where the boy lay dead. He was halted and allowed to pass. The mounted man watched him wandering toward the "loop" where the officers' quarters are situated and saw him try to hide behind a bush.

He hurried toward him and as he drew near Amann drew from his breast a blood, soaked handkerchief.

"I killed my boy. He is over there," he said pointing to the north.

The soldier rode to the guardhouse, was given a corporal's detail, which, with a stretcher, carried the man to the hospital. He was given medical attention, but persisted in calling attention to papers taken from his pocket.

Shows Boy's Letters.

One of them bore two handwritings. The first two lines in Amann's German script were:

"Please bury us together in one grave."

The next in a boyish scrawl were:

"Everything was against us. I do not want to live without my father. I go of my own free will. Please bury us in one grave.

"WALTER."

The writing on two other sheets of the paper was in the form of rough notes in Amann's hand.

"Please get my boy N east of Post—Sheridan—200 yards.

"N east at Post Sheridan—down the bend—300 yards—North of northeast corner."

Searchers Find Body.

Alarmed by these evidences supporting his declarations that he had killed "his boy," several searchers were sent out from the hospital, and shortly after daybreak Walter was found by Private Danforth of the hospital corps. The boy's head was pillowed upon his coat. Stuck in the ground beside the tree was the knife, a three inch bladed pocket knife with a bone handle. Beside it was an ordinary box of matches, upon one side of the cover of which was written in pencil, almost illegible because of the red ink of the label:

"It's his mother's fault. She is a cal—"

The last word could not be deciphered and when it was placed before him Amann said it was intended for "calumniator."

Maj. E. L. Munson and Dr. Frank C. Griffin were the surgeons who attended Amann and secured from him most of his history. Commandant Walter L. Finley gave permission for the removal of the body and the injured man to Waukegan, where the taking of testimony will begin today.

Mother Hears of Tragedy.

Mrs. Knobel had not been notified of the fate of her son when she was interviewed by a reporter for THE TRIBUNE. The first warning that she had that Amann intended some extreme act was when she was told by Herman Fiedler, with whom he lived, that he had received a letter from the missing man.

"You will shortly receive all your money. In fact, all my friends will. Good-by, farewell," was the letter.

Similar letters were received by Edward Martin, a barber at School and Perry streets, and Matthew Utenwelber, Melrose avenue and Perry street.

TWO FOUND DEAD ON TRACKS.

Well Dressed Men, Each Apparently About 35 Years Old, Killed by Railroad Trains.

Two unidentified men, apparently about the same age—35 years—and both well dressed, were found dead yesterday on railroad tracks. One body was found on the Wabash tracks a half mile south of Alpine, Ill., and the other at the Argyle avenue crossing of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad.

Police believe the latter man may have been wealthy. They hope to discover his identity through two clasped hands that were tattooed on his left forearm. The man's right toe had been amputated. His body is at Mee's undertaking rooms, 1013 West Irving Park boulevard.

The other body was found by the crew of a stock train and taken to Orland, Ill.

Mrs. Mary Sather, 26 Delaware place, was probably fatally injured last night when she stepped from a State street car at Delaware place before the car had stopped and was thrown to the pavement. Her skull was fractured.

Tony Schroeder, 3716 Ellis avenue, a switchman employed by the Illinois Tunnel company, who was crushed between two cars in the Rush street drift of the tunnel at North Clark and Kinzie streets, died in the morning at Mercy hospital.

ISSUES A WARNING TO POLES.

The Rev. Maximilian Kotecki Denounces Socialism as Menace to Success of Workingmen.

Socialism was denounced yesterday as a menace to the success of workingmen and the prosperity of the United States at the celebration commemorating the adoption of the Polish constitution of 1791, held in the Polish Parochial school hall at West Thirty-eighth and Paulina streets.

The Rev. Maximilian Kotecki, pastor of SS. Peter and Paul church, warned those present against listening to socialist agitators or reading socialist literature.

Anthony Czarnecki, the other speaker, urged all newcomers in this country to seek naturalization papers and to become true and loyal American citizens.

LEAPS TO DEATH IN THE BRIDEWELL

Prisoner Plunges from Gallery Railing to Stone Floor Far Below.

NEARLY 1,000 MEN SEE ACT

Victim Unable to Speak English and a Butt for Sport of His Fellows.

Rather than endure the taunts of his fellow prisoners who had been his companions for only two days, Christodonotos Poenergrotis, a Macedonian, leaped over the railing on the top gallery of the south cellhouse at the bridewell early yesterday and was almost instantly killed.

More than 800 prisoners saw the man as he climbed to the top of the railing, and a shout of horror went up as Fred Ross, a cellmate, who had attempted to prevent the suicide, was forced to release his hold on the Macedonian's clothing.

The prisoners were being marched to the breakfast tables at the time, and were in charge of Guards John Petnik and Robert McMurdie. Suddenly Poenergrotis sprang out of the long line, and with a wild cry leaped to the top of the railing, thirty feet above the stone floor below. For a minute he poised himself on the frame rail and was seized by Ross, who tried vainly to get a good hold.

Guards Arrive Too Late.

The line was broken and the guards came running to the scene just as the Macedonian, waving his arms about his head and shouting in his native tongue, wrested himself free from his cellmate and plunged down.

Although his skull was fractured, the man was hurried to the operating room, where Dr. Charles Scoleth attempted to revive him. Poenergrotis died, however, without regaining consciousness.

Great excitement was caused among the hundreds of prisoners, but they were readily quieted by the guards. No blame is attached to the guards, according to the bridewell authorities.

"The men in charge of the line can hardly be held responsible for the suicide," said Supt. John L. Whitman. "Poenergrotis broke from the ranks and leaped to his death before he could be prevented. He was unable to speak English and, of course, was made fun of by his fellow prisoners.

Sentenced for Accosting Woman.

"He was sent here May 15 by Judge Wells of the Desplaines street branch of the Municipal court for disorderly conduct. I understand that he accosted a woman in the Union depot several days ago and was arrested. He was fined $5, which meant a sentence of about twenty-three days."

Poenergrotis lived at 23 Blue Island avenue and had been in Chicago less than a week, coming here from New York. He was 40 years old.

ARCHBISHOP BOURGADE DEAD, WORN OUT BY HARD WORK.

For Forty Years Stationed in the Deserts of the Southwest, Spending Much of His Time in the Saddle.

Worn out by a long, unselfish life of toil and hardship spent on burning southwestern deserts, the most Rev. Peter Bourgade, who was known as "the humblest and best loved man in the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic church in the United States," passed away at Mercy hospital yesterday.

The Rev. Mr. Bourgade, who was the archbishop of Santa Fé, was one of the most striking figures in the Catholic church. Forty years ago, at the age of 23 years, he went as a missionary to the southwestern Indians. Since that time by far the greater part of his waking hours have been spent in the saddle or in wagons traveling from one to the other of his widely scattered missions.

It is said that his every acquaintance was a friend. He was induced to come to Mercy hospital by Dr. J. B. Murphy. During his short stay he was visited almost daily by Archbishop Quigley, Chancellor Dunne, Father Edward Kelly of St. Anne's, Father Sylvester Moloney of St. Laurence's, and Father John Gillan of All Saints' church.

At the archbishop's bedside at the time of his death were the Rev. S. Gates, chaplain of the hospital; the Rev. Thomas Caraher of Buffalo, Dr. George Gill, and four sisters. He recovered consciousness just before extreme unction was administered by Father Gates.

PATTEN TO FIGHT BOOK DEAL

Board of Trade Man Refuses to Drop McFarland Prosecution.

MAKE COMPROMISE OFFER.

Agents Will Return Notes and Money for Dismissal of Case.

"Drop the case against J. M. McFarland and his associates and the book contracts signed by Mrs. J. M. Patten will be torn up. Her notes for $22,800 held by a New York publication house will be destroyed and the $2,950 she spent for an edition de luxe of Shakspeare will be returned."

This in brief is the proposition that has been submitted to J. M. Patten, the board of trade man whose wife was victimized recently by the edition de luxe game, which has netted the syndicate backing it hundreds of thousands of dollars.

"I'll never drop the fight," declared Mr. Patten at his residence in Evanston yesterday. "If necessary I'll spend several thousands more. The money is nothing to me. I believe I have a public duty to perform."

Statements made to Mr. Patten and his attorney, Joseph E. Paden, indicate that A. M. Adams, who lives at the Illinois Athletic club, is the collection agent for the book sellers. He has already paid McFarland around $1,800 as his commission for the sale of the set to Mrs. Patten, the sixteen volumes which are now in their original packing case in the basement of the Patten residence in Evanston.

Promises to Collect Notes.

Mr. Adams said last night that he would hold Mrs. Patten to her contract.

"I hate a 'welsher,'" said he. "Years ago when I was on the board of trade Mr. Patten caught me short in an oat deal and I paid up like a little man. Now he's trying to 'welsh.' It doesn't matter what a book-agent says—he may promise the earth—the contract signed by Mrs. Patten says distinctly that no agreement shall be considered except the one bearing her signature. She has $8,000 worth of books for which she paid $2,000. What are they kicking for?"

Writes for Agent's Mother.

Miss Ella McLelland, the young woman who expected to marry McFarland next month, yesterday wrote a letter to the man's mother, Mrs. Celista Ann McFarland, in Cambridge, Mass., urging her to come to Chicago to assist her in her efforts to secure a settlement of the case against the book seller.

"If I have failed in my efforts to move Mr. Patten," said the girl, "perhaps his mother can succeed. She in any case expected to come here next month to make her home with her son. I also have written to Mr. McFarland's brother, G. S. McFarland, a lawyer of Boston."

"I do not see what they can prosecute Mr. McFarland for. Mrs. Patten certainly signed the contracts offering to take a number of books and agreeing to pay a certain sum for them. She has received part of the books and from all accounts they were worth nearly what she agreed to pay for them, deducting the sum for commissions. You might as well say a person is swindled in buying a pound of butter, for this sum of money is no more to her than the price of a pound of butter would be to some people.

Tells of Compromise Offer.

"The notes will be returned if the prosecution is dropped. I don't know about the money that has been paid. A. M. Adams holds the contracts for the Halliwell Shakspeare set for which Mrs. Patten agreed to pay $8,800, and I am afraid that he will insist upon the payment of this money."

Nathan Simon, a bookseller of 116 Nassau street, New York, holds Mrs. Patten's notes for $22,300, the amount she was to pay on these books, according to the contract. S. T. Warfield, who is looking after his interests, has made the statement that Mrs. Patten or her husband can be held for every dollar of the face value of the notes.

MANIAC FIGHTS ON FLAGPOLE

St. Louis Policeman Has Terrific Battle High in Air.

PATIENT FLEES FROM BED.

Firemen and Doctors Held at Bay on Cupola with Bar of Iron.

St. Louis, Mo., May 17.—[Special.]—George Gall, a raving maniac, escaped from the observation ward at the city hospital this morning and climbing to the cupola, eighty-five feet from the ground, held on to the flagstaff and with an iron bar beat off his would-be captors for forty-five minutes. Patrolman James H. Omohundro of the Soulard street station finally captured him single handed after a thrilling battle.

Held by Main Strength.

The struggle between Gall and the policeman took place on the top of the cupola, an area of three square feet. While the men were wrestling, using one hand to hold on to the pole and the other for fighting, Omohundro's helmet fell from his head to the ground. Gall leaned over to watch the hat. This was the patrolman's chance. He threw his free arm about Gall's neck and with a sudden twist threw him off his feet.

The maniac's body hung over the cupola, but by main strength Omohundro held him safe until firemen threw the patrolman a rope, which he tied about Gall's body. Then he tied the other end to the staff and lowered the maniac to the ground.

Gall a Giant in Stature.

Fifteen men had attempted Gall's capture before the patrolman arrived. Six firemen with a hook and ladder tried for half an hour to dislodge the maniac, but with the iron bar he kept them at bay. Several hospital attachés, including two of the staff doctors, had attempted to grapple with Gall.

Gall was taken to the observation ward at the city hospital May 9 suffering from epilepsy and acute mania. He is 40 years of age, unmarried, and a giant in stature.

This morning at 6 o'clock Gall tore his blanket into strips and tied the knob of the door to the radiator. Then he tore the iron leg from the bed and smashed the lock that kept fastened the iron door over the window and crawled to the cupola on the roof.

SAYS CITY'S HEALTH IS GOOD.

Few Cases of Scarlet Fever or Diphtheria Reported in Bulletin of Chicago Department.

After declaring that there are fewer cases of scarlet fever and diphtheria in Chicago than in other large cities, the board of health, through its weekly bulletin, says that there are more cases than there should be.

"These diseases are wholly preventable, and therefore should be entirely stamped out," says the bulletin. "They persist chiefly for the reason that parents lack the proper knowledge and do not exercise the proper care of the convalescing child. It is to the convalescing child that the greatest danger attaches—they are the chief spreaders of infection."

The medical inspectors of schools examined 6,873 schoolchildren last week and excluded 274, or 4 per cent, on account of contagious diseases.

Amateur Aeronaut Rides on Storm in Disabled Dirigible Craft.

SWING HIS SEAT ON TRIP.

St. Louisan Goes Fifty Miles an Hour and Triumphs Over Peril.

St. Louis, Mo., May 17.—[Special.]—John Berry, a St. Louis amateur aeronaut, today made a thrilling journey in a disabled home made airship four miles above the earth in a gale that bore him along at fifty miles an hour. He landed safely at Orchard Farm, Ill., forty miles distant.

The trip was made in a dirigible balloon, but the steering apparatus had been abandoned, and the journey was accomplished in the unincumbered envelope. This left the aeronaut at the mercy of the wind. When a northern gale was struck in the higher altitude the gas bag was hurled hither and thither.

Berry this morning determined to test his craft, and took the bag to the roof of his workshop, a three story building, where he inflated the envelope with gas. A strong wind was blowing and as the envelope filled it tugged at its mooring, the wind almost tearing it from the grasp of the men holding it.

At the last minute Berry abandoned the framework and steering apparatus and substituted a light swing or basket. As he entered the swing and shoved off the roof it was noticed that a rent almost two feet in length had been torn in the envelope.

It was too late to stop, and Berry in his odd craft was borne upward and to the east. He dropped his ballast when the wind swept his balloon down toward a tall building and the craft shot up to the clouds.

Trial of Baldwin Aerodrome.

Hammondsport, N. Y., May 17.—A preliminary trial was made today of the aerodrome "White Wing," designed by F. W. Baldwin and constructed by the Aerial Experiment association, of which Dr. Graham Bell is chairman.

The aviator's seat was occupied by Lieut. Thomas Selfridge of the United States army. No attempt was made to rise. The machine had been provided with wheels, but the steering gear was attached to the wheels as it was thought the aerial rudder would control the motion of the machine while on the ground. This proved insufficient, for the machine could not be kept from running off the track.

It was decided to make a slight change in the attachment of the front wheel and provide it with steering gear to enable the operator to steer the machine on the race-track long enough to gain sufficient speed to get into the air. No attempt will be made to fly until the operators are satisfied they have the machine under full control on the ground.

Three More to Be Built.

The association, which has its winter headquarters at Hammondsport, is an organization of experimenters working to promote the progress of aviation in America. There are five members, Alexander Graham Bell, F. W. Baldwin, J. A. D. McCurdy, Glen H. Curtiss, and Thomas Selfridge. Their object is the construction of a practical machine to be driven through the air by its own motive power and to carry a man.

The association has built two aerodromes, No. 1, the "Red Wing," upon plans approved by Lieut. Selfridge, and No. 2, the "White Wing," upon plans approved by F. W. Baldwin. The tetrahedral aerodrome of Dr. Bell probably will be No. 3, and then will follow No. 4 and No. 5, the aerodromes of Mr. Curtis and Mr. McCurdy.

It is expected all will be built this year. The two completed have been wrongfully ascribed to Dr. Bell. Work on the aerodrome will be resumed in June. Then the headquarters of the association will be moved to Baddeck, Nova Scotia, Dr. Bell's summer home.

Wright Won't Talk of Challenge.

Norfolk, Va., May 17.—Wilbur Wright, the aeronaut, who with his brother, Orville Wright, has recently made record breaking flights, were shown a dispatch to the effect that Henry Farman, the English aeronaut, who holds the aeroplane record for that country, has issued a challenge to the Ohioans to an aeroplane contest in France refused to make any statement on the subject.

Hurt in Fight at Ball Game.

In a fight at a baseball game in Harlem yesterday afternoon a young man, believed to be Morris Scheel, was struck over the head with a ball bat and suffered a probable fracture of his skull. The injured man is at the Oak Park hospital. His condition is serious. Lieut. Schwass of the Oak Park police said C. L. Lindeman, 2338 West Harrison street, struck the blow. He refused to make any statement to the police.

STRIKE IS VOTED BY TRUCK DRIVERS

Union Postpones Action on General Walkout Until Wednesday Evening.

OPPOSE WAGE INCREASE.

Employers Declare Business Conditions Will Not Allow Raise Demanded.

A strike was voted yesterday by the Truck Drivers' union at a massmeeting in Bricklayers' hall. Final action on a general walkout, however, was postponed until Wednesday night, when a special meeting will be held in the same hall to take the deciding vote.

Meanwhile strikes may be called against individual team owners who refuse to sign the new agreement providing for an increase of $1.50 a week, as demanded by the union. Officers of the union will make another effort today to secure a settlement of the wage dispute. A meeting of the strike committee of the union and the committee of the Team Owners' association will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Before Wednesday night officers of the union will direct their energies toward obtaining the signatures of individual team owners to the proposed new agreement. Both members of the Team Owners' association and employers' side of the organization will be asked to sign.

Two-Thirds Favor Walkout.

The meeting was attended by about 900 truck drivers. International President Daniel Tobin of the United Brotherhood of Teamsters and President John White of the Truck Drivers' union, in speeches, went over the ground covered by the strike committee at the meeting with the employers' committee Saturday night and Sunday morning, when the team owners refused absolutely to grant any concessions.

Strike sentiment ran high among the men and when the vote finally was taken late in the afternoon it showed a two-thirds majority in favor of a walkout.

The employers insist business conditions in the teaming industry will not permit of a wage increase at this time. They say a large number of teams are idle in the barns and that cartage rates cannot be raised. To this the teamsters reply that it is well-nigh impossible for married men with families to live in Chicago on $11.25 a week. There are nearly 5,500 teamsters in the union.

Order Political Action Committee.

A general labor political program in harmony with the political policy of the American Federation of Labor was decided upon by the Chicago Federation of Labor at a meeting in the afternoon. President Fitzpatrick was empowered to appoint a committee of fifty members on "political action" to work out a plan of procedure.

The action was brought about through the adoption of a report of a conference of Chicago labor leaders called together by Fitzpatrick to discuss the labor political situation. Following is the report in part:

"The conference recommends that proper steps be taken to form an organization in every precinct in the city of Chicago for the purpose of securing the nomination of candidates for public office who are friendly to organized labor.

"That the federation elect or appoint a committee on political action for the purpose of putting this plan into effect and for taking such other action as may be necessary for carrying out the political program of the American Federation of Labor.

"That the officers of the Chicago Federation of Labor be instructed to request the Illinois State Federation of Labor to call a conference of the central bodies of the state for the purpose of devising ways and means for carrying out this political program in the state of Illinois."

President Fitzpatrick will appoint the committee of fifty during the next two weeks. The plan of the committee will be to organize labor committees in every precinct in the city and either nominate labor candidates at the primaries or designate candidates of the regular political parties who are friendly to labor's demands to be supported by organized labor.

Support Tunnel Strike.

The federation voted its moral and financial support to the tunnel strikers. Barney Mulligan of the Tunnel Employes' union reported good progress in the strike. He said 300 mail pouches missed the regular train connections in one day last week as a result of the strike.

A referendum vote on the question of holding a labor day parade this year showed five-sixths of the membership affiliated with the federation in favor of holding the parade. Advertisements, except union labels, and display vans of merchandise will be excluded from the procession.

At the request of the Machinists' union the officers of the federation will request the civil service commission to publish in the daily newspapers the names on the eligible lists following each examination.

CLEVELAND RIOTS SUBSIDE.

Sunday Quiet Disturbed by Striking Street Car Men, but No One Hurt.

Cleveland, O., May 17.—Aside from a few minor disturbances the street car strike situation today bore no evidence of violence, while the service given by the Municipal Traction company was greatly improved. A police officer rode on each car and screens of heavy wire were provided around the motorman's vestibule.

Only one instance of a serious attempt to attack the crew of a car was reported when a crowd of boys and men sent a volley of stones and sticks at a Miles avenue car. Some of the missiles found their mark and the conductor drew a pistol, the police say, firing one shot. No one was hit.

Vice President Behner of the railway men's union visited nearly every carbarn today to note the situation. He reported everything quiet and satisfactory. International President W. D. Mahon of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes arrived here today from Chicago. He at once went into conference with Vice President Behner and members of the local executive committee. He heard detailed reports of the strike and what progress was being made towards a settlement. Mr. Mahon also met Joseph Bishop and Judge Selwyn N. Owen of the state board of arbitration.

The state arbitrators still are endeavoring to have the union and President Dupont of the Municipal Traction company come to some understanding. President Mahon said he did not expect to take any active part in the strike, and that he would return to Chicago tomorrow night.

MINE STRIKE SOCIALIST PLOT?

Indiana Operators Believe Trouble Is Result of Plan to Boost the Party.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 17.—[Special.]—Some of the big coal operators of Indiana believe the strike of the miners is a result of a well laid plan to boost socialism in the mining district.

President Van Horn of the Indiana branch of the United Mine Workers of America is the socialist nominee for congress in the Fifth district, containing several counties in which the miners are in the majority. Van Horn announces that he will go to stump the district while the miners are idle and this, of course, will insure large crowds to hear him.

Operators say socialism is on the increase among miners and that this element when sent as delegates to conferences and conventions is always a unit against any proposal advanced by the operators.

AUTO SPEEDERS ENTER TRAP

Waiting Policemen Ambush and Arrest Eight in Glencoe.

INDORSES THE "CAMPAIGN."

H. M. Leland Says "Maniacs" Bring Disrepute Upon All Motorists.

Every automobilist in Chicago was tempted by the fine weather yesterday and many of them "fell." In other words, speed clutches were thrown on and numerous motor cars spinned along the boulevards at a greater speed than that allowed by the law.

But Glencoe's vigilant police sentinels were on the watch for them and the fact that eight arrests were made in about as many hours tells the story of the day. The scorchers simply were ambushed. Those arrested were charged with driving more than twenty miles an hour, while the police say some scorched at the rate of twenty-five miles.

Here Are Alleged Scorchers.

Those arrested were:

CORNELL, GEORGE, 46 North Francisco street.
FALLON, JOHN, 196 Forty-first street.
FORRESTER, BERT, 728 Wabash avenue; fined $25, which he paid.
HEALY, M. A., Glencoe; member of firm of Lyon & Healy, music dealers.
PRID, LAMBERT, 962 Forty-second street.
REYNOLDS, F. L., 1126 Wilson avenue.
SHAFFER, KENT, 1704 Judson avenue, Evanston.
STOKES, JAMES F., 276 Ashland boulevard; paid a fine of $25.

"I'll just show you my machine here," said Mr. Reynolds to Justice Lane, who had accompanied him to the street to see his crippled automobile.

"There, you can see the driving gear is broken and we could not go at a high rate of speed if we wanted to."

"Well, I don't know anything about automobiles," said Justice Lane, "but I'll hear the evidence when the case comes to trial."

"That's just the trouble," said Reynolds. "Why don't they get somebody that knows something about an automobile to make these arrests?"

"Yes, it might be better," grimly assented Justice Lane.

Three violators of the law were arrested by the Oak Park police. They gave the names of Raymond D. Evans, 59 Madison avenue; George Rose, 15 Chestnut street, and C. A. Roberts, 1765 Sheridan road.

In Melrose Park the numbers of several cars were taken by the police.

Indorses Police Campaign.

That the police are not alone in their campaign against motor car speeding was again evidenced when H. M. Leland, general manager of the Cadillac company, issued a statement criticising severely all automobile "speed maniacs." Mr. Leland said the reckless motorist is responsible for most of the ill feeling which exists against automobile users in general. He also denied that speeding contests are of value as real tests of motor cars.

"The sooner the speed maniac is brought under control the better it will be for the other 99 per cent who use their cars within bounds of reason," he said. "Twenty-five miles per hour is fast enough to obtain the maximum of real pleasure in automobile riding.

"Our convictions on this subject extend also to the average automobile contest in which excessive speed is the sole object—not only because of the danger involved to life and limb but because we are convinced that a mere speed contest on a straightaway course is not in any sense a true test of motor car construction.

"The ultimate purpose of the automobile—its place in the scheme of things—is to render efficient service under any and all road conditions.

"Excessive speed is not only unnecessary—it is an evil which has engrafted itself upon a glorious recreation and which must be eliminated before the motor car attains its true mission as a pleasure giving vehicle.

"Road conditions which include high hills, sharp declivities, deep sand, mud and mire, and other natural deficiencies offer a genuine trial of automobile conditions, and such tests are to be encouraged if they can be conducted without any interference with the rights of the public and without danger to life and limb."

SON GONE; FATHER SEARCHES; BOTH MEN NOW ARE MISSING.

Wives Report Strange Double Disappearance to Police—Girl Bitten by Dog Wanders Away.

The police of the Warren avenue station were requested last night to search for Milo Gardner and his son, Milo Gardner Jr., who disappeared from their homes at 1216 West Van Buren street. Both men are printers.

Gardner Jr., who is 21 years old, has been missing for two weeks, according to the police. The elder Gardner, who is 46 years old, left his home a week ago in search of his son, but since then he himself has not been seen.

Mrs. Mary Gardner, wife of Gardner Jr., went to the Warren avenue station and reported her husband's disappearance. She was accompanied by her mother-in-law. They told Sergeant Kennedy that they feared their relatives had met with accidents.

The police believe that the younger Gardner, who, in addition to being a printer, is an actor, has gone on the stage.

Selma Kessinick, the girl who was bitten by a dog last Wednesday, has disappeared. It is feared the child's mind has become deranged as a result of the canine's attack, and that she is unable to find her way home.

Her mother, Mrs. Mary Kessinick, 572 West Belmont avenue, told the police the girl, who is 11 years old, remained all Friday night at the home of a friend, Mrs. Weil, 1734 Sherman place. She left Saturday morning for her home, but since then has not been seen.

DENIES ABILITY IS MORTAL SIN.

Laws Cannot Make Men Equal in Capacity, Dr. W. A. Bartlett Tells Sunday Evening Club.

"There always will be strong and weak," said the Rev. W. A. Bartlett last night at the Sunday Evening club services, at Orchestra hall. "Laws can't make all persons of the same ability and capacity.

"Some possess great ability to acquire property and are called captains of industry. Others are unable to make even a meager living. Violent discussions will do no good. It is no sin to use god given abilities, or to cultivate ambitions if they are carried on righteously."

He maintained, however, that the strong should bear the burdens of the weak—whether they were strong in a commercial, intellectual, or political sense.

The auditorium was well filled by men and women from the downtown district, for whom the services are especially intended. A large chorus furnished music.

CHARGE MARKED CARD SWINDLE

Michael Cleifeld and Samuel Odalsohn Tell of Losing $200 in David Davis' West Side Saloon.

Michael Cleifeld and Samuel Odalsohn reported to the police that they had been swindled out of $200 by marked cards in David Davis' saloon, Twelfth and Union streets, early yesterday morning. Cleifeld said he seized the cards and as he was leaving the place he was attacked and severely beaten. Assistant Chief Schuettler assigned detectives to investigate the matter.

Mrs. James F. Stepina

WILL SEEK TO BALK WEDDING

Mrs. Frank Wenter to Ask Separate Maintenance, Not Divorce.

NEITHER HUSBAND AT HOME

All Principals Keep Silent Regarding the Petition for a Decree.

The "romance" which caused Frank Wenter to be named in the divorce suit instituted by James F. Stepina against his wife, Mrs. Anna M. Stepina, may not have the sequel which the defendant and the man named in the bill might have desired.

It was generally presumed that the ultimate outcome would be the wedding of Wenter and Mrs. Stepina, but Mrs. Wenter remains to be reckoned with. While she intends seeking court action, she will not ask for an absolute divorce, which would permit her husband to wed again, but will sue merely for separate maintenance.

Mrs. Stepina Ready to Move.

Attorney George H. Mason, representing Stepina, will present his certificate of evidence to Judge McEwen today, and a decree may be handed down immediately. Mrs. Stepina expects this and has prepared to move from their home at 1681 Sheridan road as soon as the court signs the papers.

All the principals in the proceedings kept out of sight of reporters yesterday, but Wenter is known to have been in the downtown streets. It was about 3 o'clock when he stopped at Washington and Clark streets and exchanged greetings with ex-Justice James Dooley and another friend, but he showed no inclination to discuss his troubles.

He has not been at his home, 475 Ashland boulevard, for several days, and none of the members of his family has been in touch with him. Neither has Stepina been home for several days. While both men have lived under the same roofs with their wives, they have maintained separate apartments. Stepina is believed to be out of the city.

Stepina Long Suspicious.

Stepina suspected his wife and Wenter for a long time. He intended entering suit some time ago, but friends advised him against such action until after the marriage of his daughter, Mabel, to William J. Shannon, which occurred three weeks ago. Their success in this led these same friends to believe that a complete reconciliation could be effected and a jolly time was anticipated at their silver wedding anniversary, which would have been celebrated on July 25.

The two daughters of the Stepinas feel kindly toward both mother and father, and it is hard to predict with whom they will take up their residence when the court grants the divorce.

TWO IN PLUNGES FROM WINDOWS

Boy Unhurt by His Fall, but Woman Somnambulist Is Taken to Hospital.

While playing on the window sill, Edward Anderson Smith, 1500 Maple avenue, Evanston, pushed through the screen and fell three stories. The boy, who is 3 years old and the son of Herbert C. Smith, was uninjured.

Mrs. Emma Anderson, 122 Center avenue, was injured seriously during the morning, when she fell from a window on the second floor of her home, to the ground.

It is believed that the woman is a somnambulist and walked from the window while asleep. She was taken to the county hospital.

GIVE UP $900 AT GUN POINT

Storekeeper and His Wife Robbed Also of Jewelry Worth $300.

DIAMOND STOLEN ON A CAR.

Highwaymen Caught at Work in Shadow of Desplaines Street Station.

Efforts of the police yesterday to capture two masked men who robbed Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baker of $900 in money and jewelry valued at $300 were unsuccessful.

Baker, who is proprietor of a delicatessen store at 1059 West Chicago avenue, was preparing to retire Saturday night when a man entered his place and asked him to change a $10 bill. Baker went to a bedroom in the rear of his store and opened a trunk in which he kept his money. When he turned he was confronted with a revolver and the command, "Hands up."

The robber previously had pulled a mask over his face. In a moment he was joined by his "pal," also armed and masked, and the two of them proceeded to loot the place.

Mrs. Baker had retired, but when the robbers entered she awoke and was threatened with a revolver when she attempted to arise from her bed.

Robbed in Shadow of Station.

An attempt to rob Richard Pauls, a farmer of Forest Glen, Ill., in the shadow of the Desplaines street station yesterday resulted in the arrest of three highwaymen after a chase of several blocks. The men arrested are John Johnson, Alex Anderson, and Andrew Anderson.

Pauls was on his way to the Union station when he was seized from behind and knocked to the pavement. Detectives Fee and Murphy, who were seated on the front porch of the police station, heard the sounds of the fight.

The robbers fled at sight of the policemen. They were overtaken at Halsted and Randolph streets after numerous shots had been fired at them. It was only after Johnson had been knocked senseless that his companions surrendered.

Twenty-seven dollars and a gold watch that had been taken from Pauls were found in Alex Anderson's possession, it is said.

Diamond Stolen on Car.

Five pickpockets robbed Dr. A. L. Derdiger, 3058 Calumet avenue, of a diamond stud valued at $150 last night while he was riding on a crowded Wentworth avenue and Clark street "through route" car.

Dr. Derdiger was jostled by five men near the rear door of the car. He saw a man take his diamond and made an effort to seize him, but the swaying of the car prevented him from doing so.

An hour later detectives arrested Paul Vogle and Richard Murphy, two of the five alleged pickpockets. The prisoners, who are well known to the police, tried to escape, but were halted by shots in the air.

Sixty detectives were assigned to arrest pickpockets during the day by Capt. O'Brien.

M'NALLY RETURNS; SAYS 'NO MYSTERY'

Young Politician Home, in the Flesh, After His Strange Four Weeks' Absence.

"NO WINE AND NO AUTOS."

Legislator Tells of Trip to St. Louis, Pacific Coast, and Back to Chicago on $200.

"Welcome to our city."

This was the greeting that State Representative Thomas J. McNally received yesterday from Ald. Michael Kenna, on his return to Chicago, after an absence of four weeks.

With the homecoming of the First ward politician the mystery of his "disappearance" at St. Louis is cleared up, and it turns out that there was no mystery at all.

"Tommy" has been to the Pacific coast and he says he enjoyed the trip immensely. But he has not been "burning up" the boulevards in automobiles as some of the papers printed, and neither has he been in a hospital at St. Louis, or anywhere else "recuperating from injuries."

A man can't do much "high stepping" on $200, and that is what "Tommy" figures his trip to the coast has set him back. He paid railroad fare from St. Louis to San Francisco and back out of this sum and all other expenses, including hotel bills.

No Wine; No Autos.

"I guess that's pretty good evidence that I didn't open any wine or buy any automobiles," said the legislator, "but I had a pleasant trip just the same.

"First of all let me say that I haven't touched a drop of liquor on the trip, because I never drank in my life. I'm not putting myself up on a pedestal by any means, but I simply make the statement because it has been intimated that I was 'hitting the grape.'

"I have no objection to anybody taking a drink who wants it, and perhaps I would take a drink myself if I felt like it. But as I don't feel like drinking and never have cared to know the taste of liquor I am still on the water wagon.

"I have not been in an automobile since I left Chicago on April 20, and on April 28, the date of this accident at St. Louis, I was in Los Angeles. Now, that disposes of the automobile story, doesn't it?"

McNally's arrival in Chicago at 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning was unheralded. The previous night his mother and Ald. Kenna received telegrams from him saying he would arrive over the Illinois Central from St. Louis.

"The only mistake you made, Tommy," said a friend, "was not letting us know that you were going to Frisco. When I left you at Springfield after the state convention you said you were going to St. Louis for a day and would be back in Chicago Saturday."

Wanted to See the Fleet.

"Tommy" admitted he had made a mistake, but he explained the matter in this way:

"I didn't think anybody was going to make a fuss over my absence, or I would have told all Chicago about it. For some time I had been reading about Admiral Evans' fleet coming to San Francisco, and I had made up my mind before going to the state convention to 'duck out' and see 'Fighting Bob' and his war vessels.

"I went from Springfield to St. Louis, on April 23, in the company of Representatives Smith and Young.

"Friday night, April 24, I went to the Columbia theater, and at 11:27, an hour after the show was out, I took the Burlington for Los Angeles. From Kansas City, where I arrived the next morning, the continuation of the journey was over the Santa Fé.

"I arrived at Pasadena on the following Tuesday, going by street car to Los Angeles the same day. The first place I visited in Los Angeles was the Knights of Columbus council. There I registered under my own name, with the additional identification of St. Cyr council No. 1157."

Sees the Papers at Los Angeles.

McNally remained at Los Angeles until May 3 visiting points of interest which included a day's fishing at the Catalina islands. On his arrival at San Francisco May 4 he saw Chicago papers that contained reports of his "mysterious disappearance" from St. Louis.

He at once telegraphed to his mother and wrote the same day.

5,000 NORWEGIANS LISTEN TO BRYAN.

Seven Thousand More Join in the Celebration of Their National Holiday.

SPEECH WINS OUTBURST.

Nebraskan Touches Only Lightly on Politics, but Lands the Scandinavian People.

William Jennings Bryan helped 12,000 Norwegians celebrate their national holiday yesterday afternoon at a picnic in Brand's park, Elston and Belmont avenues. It was the conclusion of two days of festivities in commemoration of the ninety-fourth anniversary of the adoption of the Norwegian constitution.

Mr. Bryan talked to the Norwegians in English and Municipal Judge Oscar M. Torrison spoke in their native tongue. The democratic candidate for the presidency refrained from any but the most delicate allusions to partisan politics.

The candidate's delicacy, however, won a popular demonstration in his honor at the close of his speech. He praised the native land of his hearers and put into words the debt of America to Norway for the strong, healthy stock and the sound ideas brought to this shore.

Words Heard by 5,000.

Mr. Bryan spoke from the stage of a small amphitheater which was crowded with the members of the league's committee, headed by President Birger Osland, Chairman Andrew Hummeland, and H. A. Haugan, president of the State Bank of Chicago. The candidate was in good voice, and his words were heard by nearly 5,000 persons who stood crowded about the stand. After his address Mr. Bryan submitted to a deal of photographing, and then strolled about the grounds, guarded by the committee and ten city patrolmen.

The candidate looked in on the turbulent sea of dancers in the pavilion, was introduced by John J. Sonsteby to a Norwegian lass in native dress of flaming red embroidered in rich worsteds, and wound up at a dinner given by the committee in the café. Then he was driven away in time to catch a 5:30 train for Philadelphia, to attend the peace conference. Tomorrow he is to address the Methodist Episcopal conference in Baltimore.

Knows Norway's Beauties.

"Some time ago it was my privilege to visit your native land and therefore I know its beauties," said Mr. Bryan by way of introduction. "I visited many countries and saw much wonderful scenery which I always was comparing with what we have in this country. I saw mountains in Asia twice as high as ours. I saw rivers as great as ours. But when I saw the fiords of Norway there were no other fiords with which I could compare them.

"Then I journeyed north to the land of the midnight sun. I tell you, you Norsemen are a wonderful race. Joshua, you know, only made the sun stand still for a little while. But you Norsemen keep it from setting for several months.

"As to the quality of the land, I have only to say that I don't wonder the Norwegians prefer our broad prairies when it comes to farming. I don't know how they manage to live over there unless it is on fish, for I saw very little tillable land. I recall that we once had seven kinds of fish at one meal and five kinds of cheese."

Mr. Bryan said he had acquired in many ways a high regard for the Norwegians.

Tells of America's Debt.

Then the speaker began to enumerate the many blessings for which America is indebted to the old world. Ideas, he said, were the most valuable heritage of the new world from the old.

"I am glad the tariff laws cannot shut out ideas," he exclaimed. "The idea is the most valuable thing that can travel from nation to nation. These peoples coming here bring ideas with them and we are enriched year after year. This is what gives America an advantage over all other nations. America is like a city on a hill, whose influence is wider than that of any other.

"Europe has sent us skilled laborers in every department of industry. You will find in every industry that we are largely indebted for knowledge and skill to the ideas brought from the old world. There is no occupation, in fact, in which you will not find the citizen of foreign birth or parentage a leader.

"Some people think that a public leader thinks for the people. That is a mistake. A leader thinks with the people. So our people and their leaders have taken the ideas of government from foreign countries and developed them on this soil far beyond what would have been possible on their native sod. We obtained our ideas of free speech and a free press from abroad. And you cannot have tyranny when the people are free to speak out and denounce the law."

FORESTERS PLAN A JUBILEE.

Catholic Order to Have Monster Celebration Sunday.

SOCIETY HUGE, BUT YOUNG.

Delegates to Fill Coliseum on Twenty-fifth Birthday.

It is expected that 12,000 or 14,000 people will fill the Coliseum next Sunday when the Catholic Order of Foresters will celebrate with prayer, song, and oratory the silver jubilee of the order's birth.

The speakers will be: Archbishop Quigley, high spiritual director of the order; Thomas H. Cannon, high chief ranger; Bishop Muldoon, State Senator Julius A. Coller of Minnesota, John F. Doherty of La Crosse, Wis., a member of the high court of the order; John F. Scanlan, one of the founders of the order and its first high chief ranger, and F. X. Bilodeau of Montreal, a member of the high court. A trained chorus of 1,000 foresters will sing and the Thomas orchestra will play. The exercises will begin at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

One of the Young Orders.

The Catholic Order of Foresters, which is one of the greatest fraternal societies connected with the Catholic church, was founded twenty-five years ago by a few members of the Holy Family parish in Chicago. Most of the founders still are living. The order now is composed of over 182,000 members, but it is still strongest in Illinois, claiming over 38,000 members, while the province of Quebec is next with 21,000 members.

The initiative in founding the society was taken by the Rev. M. J. Finnegan, S. J., of the Holy Family church, who called a meeting of his parishioners in May, 1883. A charter was applied for by the following men who attended the meeting: John F. Scanlan, Michael B. Bailey, John K. Clowry, Patrick Keane, John J. Collins, Francis W. Fitz-Gerald, J. B. L. Lemoine, Michael Hart, John J. McCulloch, and M. J. Dooley, and the movement was started. The order then was called the Illinois Catholic Order of Foresters.

Fraternity's Rapid Growth.

John F. Scanlan was chosen first high chief ranger and held the office until 1888, when he was succeeded by Prof. John P. Lauth. At this time the order had little over 5,000 members. Soon afterward the name Illinois was dropped and subordinate courts were established in Wisconsin and Canada. Polish, French, German, and Italian courts were instituted and the membership more than doubled in the next two years.

During the two following years under High Chief Ranger P. J. Cahill the membership again doubled. Mr. Cahill was followed by John C. Schubert, who, in 1894 gave place to Thomas H. Cannon, who has held the office continuously ever since.

In the last fourteen years more than 106,000 men have joined the order, it has spread to every part of the United States and Canada, and the insurance amounts to $138,500,500.

The vigor of the order in Chicago is shown by the fact that the courts on the south side of the city initiated over 2,500 new members last fall.

DECISION ON SUNDAY CLOSING WILL BE HANDED DOWN TODAY.

Appellate Court to Pass on Mandamus Suit Compelling Mayor to Shut Saloons on First Day of the Week.

Judges Adams, Holdom, and Brown, sitting in the Appellate court, this morning will decide what is known as the "Kenna case," the mandamus suit brought to compel Mayor Busse to close the saloons of Chicago on Sunday.

The decision will not finally settle the question, as it will still have to go to the state Supreme court, but whichever side wins today will have a long lead in the final legal proceedings. Furthermore, should the contention of the anti-saloon people be sustained, the question whether the saloons must not be closed on Sunday at once would be immediately precipitated. If the court refuses to issue the writ, then matters would remain as they are until the Supreme court may have reversed it.

All sorts of rumors were afloat yesterday as to the finding of the court, but they were all based on prejudice or argument.

RAFT HITS PILE; BOY DROWNS.

Inmate of St. Mary's Training School at Feehanville Meets Death in Desplaines.

An unidentified boy, an inmate of St. Mary's Training school at Feehanville, was drowned in the Desplaines river yesterday when a raft on which he was riding struck a submerged pile. Sister Berrmao, superintendent at the school, reported the accident to Coroner Hoffman. At the point where the boy fell into the water the river is between ten and twelve feet deep with a strong current. When the boy reached the surface the raft had been carried down stream. He tried to swim toward the bank, but disappeared.

KING REBELS AT STATE MARRIAGE

Manuel of Portugal Declares He Will Wed His Early Choice or None.

LOVES LADY IN WAITING.

Queen Amelie Insists on Alliance for Her Son with a Princess of Some Foreign Power.

LISBON, May 17.—The Mundo prints a romantic story about King Manuel's attachment for the young daughter of a lady in waiting to Queen Amelie that threatens to disrupt the matrimonial plans being laid for him. King Carlos and Queen Amelie were fully aware of the fondness of Manuel, when a prince, for the girl, who is connected with the highest Portuguese nobility, but they considered it simply a childish fancy.

Since Prince Manuel's unexpected accession to the throne a suitable alliance with a European royal house is regarded as a necessity of state.

Queen Amelie and the duke of Oporto have been casting about to find an available princess, both favoring one of British extraction because of the close relations between the countries. A few days ago they were openly canvassing the matter in the king's presence, when, to their great surprise, he suddenly announced as his unalterable choice his early love, and proclaimed his determination to marry her or nobody.

Remonstrances on the ground of reasons of state were without effect, and as a consequence the lady in waiting and her daughter will be asked to go abroad in the hope that a long separation will cure the king of his boyhood love.

PEOPLE BACK JAP GOVERNMENT

Constitutionalists Win in Tokio and Provincial Election, Insuring Stability of Cabinet.

TOKIO, May 17.—The results of the general election held on Friday in Tokio and the provinces have not yet been compiled on account of difficulty experienced in communicating with distant points. It is safe, however, to predict that the constitutionalists have won a substantial majority and the government expects to face the next diet with a majority over all combinations. Those best informed declare that such a popular indorsement of the government insures the stability of the cabinet.

ARRESTED FOR MAIL THEFTS

John Mitchell, Employed in Registry Division, Sent to Cell.

CAUGHT OPENING A LETTER.

Accused Man the Sole Support of His Widowed Mother and Sister.

John Mitchell, a clerk in the registry division of the Chicago postoffice, was arrested yesterday charged with opening registered mail and stealing money. He was the sole support of his widowed mother and a 12 year old sister, who lived with him at 272 Fifty-fifth street.

Postoffice inspectors have been working on the case for two weeks. They watched every employé in the division who came in contact with registered mail. The fact that many clerks were employed at the same table with Mitchell caused no particular suspicion to be directed toward him. It was not until every other employé had been watched and complaints continued that he was suspected.

While pretending to be at work the inspectors watched the employés. They assert Mitchell was detected opening a letter.

Mitchell was taken to the county jail, where he is being held pending arraignment before United States Commissioner Foote.

APPORTION SEATS FOR CONVENTION.

Thankless Task, Dodged by Committee, Tackled by Chairman New.

EACH STATE A GRUMBLER

New York, Pennsy, Illinois, and Others in "Fierce Rivalry" to Get First Row.

Chairman Harry S. New and Secretary Elmer Dover of the republican national committee this morning will take up one of the most onerous and certainly the most thankless jobs of all the preparations for a national convention. It is the apportionment of the seats for the approaching gathering at the Coliseum among the people who are entitled to seats and no apportionment that satisfied everybody ever has been made.

Strictly speaking, it was the duty of the subcommittee on arrangements to do this work, but the subcommittee saw a chance to sidestep and promptly did it. The matter had not been reached Saturday night and a number of members decide it was extremely important they get home, or to Washington at once, so they took the first train. They had full confidence in the discretion of Mr. New and Mr. Dover and passed the job over to them.

In this apportionment work the main seats are the delegate and the press ones. They are numbered and there always is a shortage of press seats and state delegations do not get the locations they think they are entitled to. New York always has the idea it ought to have the front row and Pennsylvania is filled with the same notion.

Massachusetts, Illinois, and Ohio also demand consideration. So it goes, and, as the newspapers are just as insistent in their demands, the troubles of the committeemen are manifest.

Burke Prepares His Bomb.

Robert Emmet Burke started making more trouble yesterday for his friends—the members of the "regular democracy." He polished up the county slate, the framing of which he started Saturday night, by adding the necessary candidates to it, and announced it was a good piece of work when he had finished. His idea was to get it in the field before the "regular democracy" could act and putting his rivals in the position of either indorsing part of it at least, or else losing democratic votes at the primaries.

There is no doubt the regulars will have to indorse John E. Traeger for board of review, and if Frank D. Connery insists on running for a clerkship they would have to accepted him also. He is backed by a strong contingent among their own ranks, including his brother and Harry G. Gibbons.

"The slate will go on the primary ticket," remarked Mr. Burke, "and some of it, anyhow, will go on the official ballot in November."

Of course any candidates he can get on the official ballot, if elected, will owe their positions theoretically at least to Mr. Burke, and not the regular democracy.

Slate for Each Candidate?

But the regulars are having so much trouble over their own slate making that perhaps one or two extra difficulties do not make much difference. Chairman O'Connell will announce today the subcommittee which will make up the "regular slate," but there is no guarantee that after it is made it will be allowed to go unchallenged. The chances are that ultimately there will be about as many slates as there are candidates for state's attorney, and that means several.

Just now Jacob Kern has the call for this nomination on the regular slate, but Maclay Hoyne and Ald. Deven are both candidates, Daniel Cruice says he will run anyhow, Richard Burke is already in the field, Cyril Jandus thinks he ought to be nominated, and Robert E. Burke has put John J. Coburn in the field. With as many candidates for all the other places on the ticket, there ought to be no trouble in framing as many slates as anybody cares for.

Wintermeyer in the Field.

William Wintermeyer, a Seventeenth ward democrat who had a city hall job under the Harrison and Dunne administrations has announced his candidacy for the nomination for state representative from the Twenty-seventh district. He defeated J. S. Geakkewich, the present representative, for the nomination two years ago, but withdrew at the request of Ald. Dever.

Ald. Kenna of the First ward furnished the excitement at the meeting of the Cook County Democratic Marching club in the afternoon. He brought in fifty-five new members, all from his own ward, and as the total additions were only sixty, it was voted the alderman had done his share. He explained most of them wanted to go to the Denver convention.

Polish-American Candidate.

Five hundred Polish-American business men met during the afternoon in Klimek hall, Central Park avenue and Wolfram street, and there launched the candidacy of Edmund Szajkowski for the republican nomination as Cook county recorder.

BURROWS TO SOUND KEYNOTE.

Washington, D. C., May 17.—[Special.]—The keynote speech of the next republican campaign will be prepared at Scarborough-on-the-Hudson. Senator Burrows of Michigan, who was selected for that honor by the subcommittee on arrangements of the republican national committee in Chicago yesterday, expects to go to New York soon after congress adjourns to rest and prepare for his work at the convention. He will be the guest of his son-in-law, George McNair, a New York business man, at his country home at Scarborough.

No person in the country was more surprised apparently than was Senator Burrows at the action taken by the subcommittee in naming him for the honor. The first intimation that he had that his name had been considered was while he was seated at dinner at a local hotel last night with Mr. William Livingstone of Detroit, an old time friend, and a call to the long distance telephone put him in communication with Harry S. New, chairman of the committee.

"Will you accept the temporary chairmanship of the Chicago convention?" asked Mr. New.

"Well," and the senator hesitated. "I am not coy, Harry, but really this is sudden."

"It is for you to say, senator," continued Mr. New. "We need you."

"I have made it a rule all my life," replied Mr. Burrows, "to respond to every call the republican party makes upon me, and you may count upon my services if you need them."

Senator Burrows went back to his dinner. When he returned home later in the evening he found a telegram from Mr. New notifying him officially that he had been chosen.

In Washington the information is that the committee had under consideration the names of Senators Dolliver and Beveridge. Chairman New was the only member of the subcommittee that favored Beveridge. The other members were not agreed on any one man. Finally the name of Senator Burrows was suggested as one who would be acceptable to all elements, and it proved an agreeable compromise. It is looked upon as significant only in respect that the republican leaders are determined to guard against any innovations in the keynote utterances this year.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON GAINS STRENGTH IN THE SOUTH.

North Carolina Senators Desert Bryan for Minnesotan, and Alabama Is Claimed for Him.

Washington, D. C., May 17.—[Special.]—Opinion is widespread among the democratic politicians of Washington that Gov. Johnson's visit to the capital last week gave a decided impetus to his boom for the presidential nomination. The trend toward Johnson among the southern congressmen was marked, and it is predicted that the Minnesota governor will gain more strong friends in the party when he returns here this week.

The most decided advance by Johnson was in gaining the support of the North Carolina senators, Simmons and Overman, both of whom have declared themselves in favor of sending uninstructed delegations to the Denver convention in opposition to Bryan's recent appeal through the columns of the Commoner for specific instructions. The significance of the action of the North Carolina senators lies in the fact that their state is, or was supposed to be, wildly enthusiastic for Bryan, and the understanding was that Simmons and Overman were restrained from declaring against the peerless leader only by the knowledge that it might have an unhappy effect upon their political fortunes.

Alabama is to have democratic primaries tomorrow, and while the state was regarded as overwhelmingly for Bryan up to a short time ago, Johnson supporters now express confidence that their man will make a splendid showing and perhaps win the delegation at the Denver convention. Senator Johnston of Alabama has come out for Johnson, and his stand is likely to have a marked effect upon voters. Thousands of copies of the interview in which he expressed a preference for Johnson over Bryan have been distributed in Alabama.

GUILD FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

Governor of Massachusetts Will Be Nominated by Senators Lodge and Crane.

Boston, Mass., May 17.—[Special.]—Massachusetts will nominate Curtis Guild Jr. of Boston as the republican candidate for the vice presidency at the coming republican national convention in Chicago. Henry Cabot Lodge and W. Murray Crane, United States senators from Massachusetts, have taken charge of the Guild movement and from this time on will labor for his nomination.

TRIPLE FATALITY AT CROSSING.

COUSIN OF BRYAN BELABORS A SOLON

Ex-Gov. Jennings of Florida Canes Congressman in Hotel Lobby.

RESENTS GRAFT CHARGE.

Frank Clark Beaten with His Own Walking Stick in Jacksonville.

Jacksonville, Fla., May 17.—[Special.]—Congressman Frank Clark of the Second Florida district was belabored with his own walking stick by ex-Gov. W. S. Jennings, cousin of W. J. Bryan, in the lobby of the Hotel Aragon this afternoon.

Clark has been bitterly assailing those opposing him for reelection. He spoke at the opera house last night and among those he attacked was ex-Gov. Jennings. Clark reviewed the public career of Jennings and said the ex-governor had genius for grafting.

Jennings Starts on Warpath.

When Jennings learned today of Clark's charges he announced that he intended to whip the congressman. The ex-governor called at the hotel and found Clark surrounded by a crowd in the lobby.

"Did you call me a grafter?" asked Jennings.

"I did," replied Clark.

Caned with Own Stick.

"You are a liar!" cried Jennings, as he snatched the heavy cane Clark was carrying and began to use it forcibly on the congressman's head and shoulders.

After Jennings had dealt Clark several blows the bystanders recovered from their surprise and stopped the fight.

Clark says the matter shall not rest, and many fear there will be further trouble between the men.

NEXT GENERATION TO FREEZE?

Prof. Steinmetz Says Fuel Supply Will Be Problem for Coming People.

New York, May 17.—[Special.]—Dr. Charles Proteus Steinmetz, professor of electrical engineering at Union college in Schenectady, took a look into the future in a lecture this afternoon at the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. He said a handicap against electricity now is its high cost of production.

"The time will come," said Prof. Steinmetz, "when we will have no more coal, and it is not far in the future. Anthracite will not last long, and many of us who are here will be alive when the last is gone. Many of us will see the time when there is only soft coal.

"Some of you may see the time when soft coal is exhausted, but probably not, for there is a supply of this even in Greenland's icy mountains. But nevertheless we can see the end, and when we approach it, what are we going to do to keep from freezing? That seems to be the problem the next generation will have to meet, and maybe we ourselves."

Intelligent Shoe Economy

Three pairs of really fine shoes, purchased at the same time and worn in rotation with a change every day—is much more intelligent and effective economy than five or six pairs of ordinary shoes bought in succession and worn out one pair at a time.

The first method, with our kind of shoes, will probably outlive twice the number of pairs which are lower in price because they are inferior in quality—omitting altogether the matter of correct appearance and real self-satisfaction meanwhile.

The Storage of Furs

The modern way we care for furs during the summer months.

¶ We have had recently constructed a large storage vault exclusively for the storing of furs. In this vault we have executed the most modern ideas in the care and protection of furs during the hot weather.

¶ The furs are first thoroughly cleaned and then hung separately in well ventilated storage rooms, where they will acquire the luster and richness of appearance they had when new.

¶ We have recently removed from 110 and 112 Madison Street, where we were located for thirty-six years, to our present location and have every convenience for the manufacturing and selling of furs.

You never bought qualities like 'em for less than $10 and you have sometimes paid more than $12, but you'll never own 'em as advantageously as they can be bought Monday and Tuesday..... $7.95

$15.00 Imported Curtains, $10.00
Wish we had more of 'em, then we'd ask more for them, but though the lot numbers a fairly decent aggregate, two and three pairs are all you can count in any one style. Clearing out odds and ends, you see. Equally divided between Duchesse Lace and Real Arabian Curtains. There are ten or twelve pairs that were $13.50, but all the rest were $15.00. Monday and Tuesday..... $10.00

$1.50 Ruffled Curtains, $1.19
You know the sort—Bobbinet style with Battenberg ruffle insertion and edge. The net is soft and dainty—the ruffle is liberally full. Just in white. Made with a heading ready for the rod. Were $1.50—just for Monday and Tuesday..... $1.19

$6.00 Brussels Curtains, $3.95
They're hand made and as sheer and dainty as can be. Ever so many different styles. Some have plain centers with deep insertion and edge, some just have a deep edge—every pair is guaranteed. We brought them over ourselves. Some of them are worth $6.00, none under $5.00. We offer you eight different patterns just for Monday and Tuesday at..... $3.95

$7.50 Arabian Curtains, $5.00
You can reverse them—both sides are exactly alike. The patterns have their outlines corded. Then there are some real Cluny Curtains with insertion and edge and Arabian Curtains in "Marie Antoinette" effect. We'll put all of these into one price group and Monday and Tuesday we'll forget that they are $7.50 regularly, and just ask..... $5.00

$25.00 Lace Curtains, $15.95
There is nothing the matter with them. They are not old stock. The patterns aren't bad—the only fault we have to find is the number we have. These are real Duchesse but only in Ivory. The most beautiful drawing room curtains created. They have a deep insertion and edge or just a deep edge. They were imported to retail at $25—Monday and (if they last until then) Tuesday..... $15.95

THAW HAS SMALL HOPE OF ESCAPE.

Fears He Has Failed to Convince Judge of His Sanity.

ADMITS THREE MURDERS.

Half Witted Farmhand Slays Employer, Latter's Wife, and Servant Girl.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, New York, May 17.

Harry K. Thaw seems to realize that his efforts to gain freedom from confinement in the Matteawan insane asylum, which terminated so suddenly in the closing of evidence before Justice Morschauser last night, have already failed. The few startling minutes he spent on the witness stand were sufficient to undo all the structure of testimony his counsel had raised.

Thaw Depressed; Fears He Will Not Be Freed.

During the three days hearing before Justice Morschauser the prisoner's bearing had been almost identical with that displayed by him while he was on trial for his life. When District Attorney Jerome called upon him to take the stand he went to pieces and floundered in a manifest daze. Jerome's first question drew only an incoherent and muffled answer from him and in his bewilderment Thaw turned appealingly to the justice. When his answer did become distinguishable upon the reiteration of the questions by Jerome, Thaw's statements manifested a strange inconsequence.

"There are plenty of ways left for making the fight for Thaw's freedom," said Mr. Peabody, his counsel, "but we are not crossing bridges before we come to them."

There remains but one line of attack for his counsel and that is the contention which still remains to be submitted on brief, that the law under which Justice Dowling committed Thaw to Matteawan at the close of the second murder trial is unconstitutional.

Farm Hand Admits Killing Man, Wife, and Servant.

Frank Zastera, a half witted Bohemian farm hand, who went to work for William B. Sheppard last Thursday on the old Garrett Wall place near Wickatunk, N. J., confessed to Prosecutor Stokes today he murdered Lieut. Sheppard, Mrs. Sheppard, and their servant, Jennie Bunday, Saturday morning. He shot Mrs. Sheppard first as she was going upstairs with a bottle of milk for her baby, and when the lieutenant rushed to his wife's aid, Zastera shot him.

After that he ran around to the back of the house where Jennie Bunday was getting breakfast and shot her.

"I did it," said Zastera. "I wanted money. I knew Mr. Sheppard had a lot of money in a purse he carried. It came to me all at once to kill him and his wife that morning when I got up to milk the cow. I hadn't thought of it before."

Travels from Spain to Mexico Seeking Father.

Seeking his father, who disappeared many months ago, his only clew being a torn fragment of a letter, Carlos Amenabar, a Spaniard, arrived here today on the St. Louis. As soon as he was landed he left for Mexico. In 1904 José Amenabar, head of the family and father of young Carlos, came to this country with the hope of extending his business connections here. His family heard from him at intervals until early in 1907, when he disappeared. He was at that time in Baton Rouge, La.

Some weeks ago the son received a letter from his father. It was sent from a small town in Mexico and apparently had been deliberately torn in half after it was written. The letter conveyed no information of sufficient intelligence to tell what had befallen the writer. The side with the signature, date, and name of the town where it was written were missing, but the latter was supplied by a post mark. That the letter was written by José Amenabar there could be no doubt. Another strange fact was that the subscription upon the envelope was not in the same handwriting as the body of the letter.

Morse Forms a $10,000,000 Corporation.

Less than three weeks ago Charles W. Morse, who once controlled eight-one steamships and had a great deal to say in the management of thirteen banks, but who was hit hard in the financial flurry last fall and is now under indictment, said: "All I ask is to be let alone and I will work things out."

Since that time Morse has been one of the busiest men in New York. All his efforts have been directed at rebuilding his great fortune. On Saturday Morse organized in Bath, Me., his birthplace, the Morse Securities company, capitalized at $10,000,000, which, he says, was formed as a holding company, organized to purchase securities. It is his second important financial exploit since he made the remark. The first was the settlement of a claim of $500,000 which the National Bank of North America had against him.

Gibson Back from Paris for the Summer.

Charles Dana Gibson, creator of the pen and ink young woman who made enough money for him to enable him to go in for "color" at a Paris studio, arrived today by the American liner St. Louis with his wife, daughter, Miss Irene, and son Langhorne. They are on their way to their island home off the coast of Maine, where they will spend the summer.

"BRUSH out well" is the Devoe Lead-and-Zinc rule for painting; two thin coats, brushed out as thin as can be made, to cover the surface, are better than anything else—except three. Few people paint three coats.

Devoe Lead and Zinc brushes out well and covers well, because of the fine grinding it gets in making. No hand-mixed lead and oil compares with it for economy and wear.

Dealers sell it; get Devoe paint things for all sorts of fixing up.

ROOT MAY HEAD SUPREME COURT.

he has been actively engaged in the practice of law since 1867, and is generally ranked at the head of the bar in New York, and probably of the country.

Those who are intimate with President Roosevelt know how greatly he has leaned on Secretary Root at all times. When Mr. Root was secretary of war his advice was constantly sought on a great variety of subjects. President McKinley leaned on him and asked his opinion regarding everything which had legal bearing and a good many things which had not. The acute, incisive, logical habit of thought of Elihu Root was the very thing which was most necessary to the government during the crucial period when we had swallowed the Philippines and were just learning how to digest them. The work of drawing up the bill of rights or informal constitution for the islands was largely delegated to Mr. Root, and it was he who fixed the status of Cuba and opened the way for the creation of an independent republic there. Secretary Root was a member of the Alaskan boundary commission appointed by President Roosevelt, and when John Hay died Root was naturally selected as his successor to take charge of the state department.

Taft as Assistant President.

Some friends were chatting with Secretary Taft one day about the vice presidency. He said frankly he would like to see Hughes on a ticket with him, if such a thing were possible, but the secretary of war intimated broadly that he himself had had so much of a national career he did not feel that he should be asked to take a subordinate position under Gov. Hughes. The suggestion was made that the office of vice president had been greatly elevated of late and that the person holding that position should really be an assistant president rather than a mere heir apparent waiting to step into the shoes of another man.

"I wouldn't mind being assistant president to such a man as Elihu Root," said Secretary Taft, "and I should consider it an honor to be nominated for the vice presidency under his leadership. In the same way, although I am a younger man, I believe he would be quite content to be vice president with me, because he would know that in such a position I would make him an active part of my administration."

Administration Triumvirate.

In a recent speech dedicating the cornerstone of the new home for the bureau of American republics, President Roosevelt went out of his way to say some nice things about Elihu Root. This was not the only time he has done this. Between Roosevelt, Root, and Taft there exists the strongest possible bond of friendship, respect, and something which is as much like love as anything else. The triumvirate are today to all intents and purposes the administration. They are essentially alike and yet quite unlike. The two secretaries admire the impulsiveness of the president and they appreciate his enthusiasm and his honesty. He has a vast respect for their intellectual capacity, for their legal ability, and for their sound and conservative advice on every subject. If Root had been ten years younger it might have been a toss up whether he or Taft would have had President Roosevelt's support for the succession.

Understanding the relations of the three men, with one retiring from the presidency and another apparently about to assume the responsibilities of the office, it is only natural to suppose that the party of the third part, Elihu Root, should be properly taken care of after election. There is only one promotion he can have, and that is to become chief justice of the Supreme court of the United States.

GUNNESS JURORS READY FOR WORK

Panel Drawn to Consider Evidence Against Lamphere; Indictment Expected.

PICNICKERS AT LAPORTE.

Townspeople Take Advantage of Influx and Feed Visitors on "Gunness Stew."

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Laporte, Ind., May 17.—[Special.]—The Laporte county grand jury will begin its investigation of the tragedies of the Gunness farm tomorrow morning.

Prosecutor R. N. Smith will present the first of fifty witnesses to testify against Ray Lamphere, who is accused of burning alive Mrs. Bella Gunness and her children in their house on the morning of April 28.

That indictments will be returned charging arson and murder in the first degree in the case of the Gunness fire is looked upon as a foregone conclusion. There is a strong possibility that another indictment will be voted charging Lamphere with being an accessory to the murder of Helgelein.

Grand Jurors Are Chosen.

The grand jury is composed of six members. They are: N. D. McCormick, ex-sheriff, foreman; August Z. Anders, farmer; Henry Keithlein, farmer; Fred H. Zahn, ex-county treasurer; Joseph Fraser, retired groceryman; August Barsken, farmer. Deputy Sheriff Leroy Marr, who did most of the detective work on the part of the local authorities in the investigation, will have charge of the witnesses. Tonight he had served subpœnas and more were being made out in the prosecutor's office.

Where Has the Money Gone?

A tabulated estimate of the money Mrs. Gunness is believed to have secured from victims during her career places the total estimate at $51,900.

Mads Sorenson, Chicago	$ 8,000
Peter Gunness, Laporte	3,500
Andrew Helgelein, Mansfield, S. D.	2,900
Ole O. Budsberg, Iola, Wis.	2,500
Herman Konitzberg, Chicago	8,000
George Berry, Tuscola, Ill.	1,800
Charles Ermond, Newcastle, Pa.	6,000
John O. Moe, Elbow Lake, Minn.	1,800
Henry Gerhalt, Scandinavia, Wis.	400
Three unknowns	3,000
Suitors reported missing	15,000
Total	$51,900

What became of all this money is one of the questions that remains to be answered. Mrs. Gunness had only $700 in the bank the day before her house was burned.

"Gunness Stew" Latest Entree.

The scenes of last Sunday at the Gunness farm were repeated today by a smaller crowd. Probably 10,000 excursionists were here. Pennants bearing the name of Laporte were sold and the "street men" did a thriving business.

Those who observed the picnickers marveled at the fact that the wholesale murders seem to be regarded by a great many people as the basis of a light-hearted celebration. There were puns on the name of Gunness and in the restaurants a concoction something like chile concarne was dispensed under the name of "Gunness stew."

DEATHS.

(For other death notices see page 12.)

BOURGADE—Archbishop Bourgade died yesterday at Mercy hospital and will lie in state in the chapel of the hospital tomorrow morning. Funeral services will be held in Holy Name cathedral at 10 o'clock. In the evening the remains will be taken via the Santa Fe railway to Santa Fe, N. M., where burial will take place in the old cathedral of that historic city.

BIG BANK TO CLOSE ITS DOORS

Allegheny National of Pittsburg Decides to Suspend.

EFFORTS TO SAVE IT FAILED.

Commercial Deposits Small, but Institution Carries Much Public Money.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 17.—It is officially announced tonight that the Allegheny National bank, whose former cashier, William Montgomery, is in jail, specifically charged with the misappropriation of $594,000, while officers of the bank and of the treasury department are trying to fathom still larger apparent discrepancies in the bank's funds, will not reopen for business tomorrow.

Instead a notice on the door will announce that the controller of the currency has taken charge and will close up the affairs of the bank. Until late today it had been expected by Examiner W. L. Folds, who discovered the alleged peculations and made the charges against Montgomery, and by the officers and directors of the bank, that the institution would weather the storm and be able to continue business.

To this end a number of strong financial institutions and prominent capitalists of the city offered assistance and provided $250,000 cash, while the directors provided a like amount to meet immediate needs or provide for possible emergencies.

Agreed Upon New Officers.

At the same time a complete reorganization was decided upon and a new cashier and other officers were practically agreed upon. A hitch occurred in these plans yesterday and all of them was spent in conferences, attended by Examiner Folds, representing the treasury department; the bank's directors, and financiers who had proffered aid. After a careful review of the situation suspension of the bank was decided upon as the only logical course.

Huge Public Funds in Bank.

The private and commercial deposits of the bank are small, amounting to not over $300,000. The bank as a city depository carries about $1,500,000 of the city's funds, and as an active state depository over $500,000 of state funds.

It is possible that the city may experience some inconvenience in having the funds tied up for a time, but it is understood that both the state and city are protected against actual loss by bonds of surety companies.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

An Army Officer's Report.

"For some time past I have been troubled with dandruff, and with hair falling out. My head itched continually, while my hair appeared lusterless and dead. I tried several remedies without any permanent relief, and had about reconciled myself to premature baldness. After using a bottle of your Herpicide, I have been greatly benefited. The hair has stopped falling out, and the itching has ceased and no more dandruff forms in the scalp. My hair is coming in thick and has a fine glossy appearance."

"I beg to state that I have used the bottle of Herpicide that your representative left me and am thoroughly pleased with it. I have since bought two or three bottles for myself and other members of my family and have had the very best of results. I am now prescribing it freely to my patients with full confidence in the result to be obtained. I rarely ever give a testimonial for an advertised remedy, but yours is of such merit that it is only fair that I should do so in this case." (Signed),

THE LESSONS OF CHELSEA.

The report on the Chelsea fire made by the Underwriters' bureau of New England is worthy of the careful consideration of every community on the continent. Perhaps its findings are especially impressive because they have to do with an old city in a long settled region. In the newer portions of this country and Canada the heedlessness of youth and the preoccupations of a population rustling to be rich are expected to pay the price from time to time of incaution and want of foresight. New England should tell a different story.

As to general conclusions the report finds that the excessive loss was the result of the inadequacy of building laws, the neglect by authorities strictly to enforce the laws existent, and the insufficiency of water supply and fire fighting equipment. Some of the special findings, which apply not only to small cities, towns, and villages but to large sections of the great cities, are as follows:

1. The dangerous nature of pitch or mansard shingle roofs, frame porches, piazzas, and accessory woodwork in spreading a conflagration.

2. Complete failure of any roof supported by unprotected steel or iron to withstand any but the smallest fire.

3. The need of good window protection where the sweep of the flames is parallel to division walls and the necessity of blank walls or properly protected window openings and parapet walls at right angles to prevailing winds.

4. The vulnerability of any ordinary buildings to sparks and embers, provided the bombardment be long enough, even though the space separating them from the burning buildings is great.

5. The slight value of streets of ordinary width in holding a fire when there is strong wind blowing and the fighting force is scattered.

6. That municipalities cannot violate the laws of good construction and fire protection without inviting conflagration.

7. That more coöperation is needed between city officials and insurance interests in regard to protection against fire.

This is a period of stimulated civic interest—in the new towns of the west as well as in the towns and cities of the east and south. The warning involved in the last two of these findings should, therefore, gain not a little intelligent response from progressive citizens, civic societies, and competent officials everywhere. Building laws should be carefully amended and expansion should be regulated with the end in view of proper protection, as well as immediate utility.

"Municipalities cannot violate the laws of good construction and fire protection without inviting conflagration." Chicago and its suburbs may well take that to heart. It is not wisdom for Frog Hollow and Four Corners only.

A COMMENDABLE PRIZE.

The authorities of Bryn Mawr college recently awarded a prize to the member of the senior class who showed "throughout her four years in college in the highest degree the qualities of joyousness, high courage, fortitude, and faithfulness." This prize is to be awarded annually in memory of the late May Helen Ritchie, who was for some time secretary of the college and was conspicuous for these qualities.

These are most excellent qualities in womanhood, or in manhood either, as far as that is concerned, but they are novelties as prize winners in college curriculums. There are plenty of prizes for superiority in the various branches of culture intended to urge the young women to attain excellence in studies which most of them forget after they have been out of college a few years. Superiority in the qualities necessary to secure the Ritchie prize, however, is likely to be lasting.

Joyousness, courage, and faithfulness are, of course, largely temperamental, but there is no question that they can be cultivated and grow, just as there is no question that without cultivation in their lives the opposite qualities may grow until they become fixed habits. If these excellent qualities are susceptible to cultivation, then the Bryn Mawr alumnæ who have striven for the prize will be likely to make happy homes and add to the sum of human cheerfulness. Bryn Mawr perhaps is contributing to bring about a more blissful condition of things.

MISSOURI AND ITS RIVER.

The state of Missouri wants its great river improved so as to make it a good waterway between St. Louis and Kansas City. The United States does not seem inclined to push the enterprise because of unfavorable reports of its engineers. Gov. Folk says that the time has come when the general government must either improve the river or else permit the state of Missouri to do so. In some way or other that waterway must be put in first class condition.

From the government standpoint the difficulty is that the engineers have advised against outlays owing to the peculiar character of the river. The Missouri is a restless stream. It is not contented to find a channel and flow along peacefully. It displays wandering traits. Improvements may be made in one place only to be rendered valueless by the shifting of channel or banks. The wisdom of large expenditures under such circumstances has been questioned until the United States has given up plans for making the river navigable.

Gov. Folk says that Missouri is ready to undertake the job itself if the government will grant the necessary permission. The demand for the improvement is general in the state. The people in the territory through which the river passes want to see it a great waterway again. As the federal authority is supreme over navigable waters the state will not attempt the work without a definite congressional grant of power.

To recoup itself for its necessarily large outlays the state will be satisfied with the revenue derived from the creation and sale of water power. It is significant of the increasing interest in such development plans that Gov. Folk should indicate his belief in an income from the improved river sufficient to pay for all the work and in addition to meet all the expenses of the state government.

The proposition looks like one to be accepted by congress. If Missouri wishes to attempt the river improvement despite the adverse report of the government engineers it should be permitted to do so. The interest of the United States is mainly connected with navigation. If Missouri succeeds in making its river a practicable waterway for safe and easy travel the country at large will profit without any expense. If the experiment fails the situation will be no worse than it is now. Missouri should be given leave to try if it so desires.

THE WEST SIDE POSTOFFICE.

If congress can be induced to appropriate now $2,000,000 for the purchase of a site for a postoffice on the west side and for the construction of the building, so much the better. Then the whole matter would be over as far as congress is concerned. But if congress cannot be persuaded to vote the $2,000,000 it should at least vote all that will be required to buy the right kind of a site. A whole block will be needed, and the $750,000 allowed in the appropriation bill will not be enough to get a block east of Halsted street. It is between that street and the south branch, not far from the great depots at which half the mail matter handled by the Chicago postoffice is received, that the new building should be situated.

It may seem unreasonable to some congressmen to buy a whole block of land and cover it with a one story building. They may ask, Why not buy one-fourth as much land and put up a four story building? One answer is that the experience of Chicago officials on the lake front taught them that men can work to more advantage in a building which is all ground floor. Another answer is that when additional room shall be needed and the requirements of the office grow rapidly, it will be a simple matter to add another story. That would be much less expensive than buying more land. Another reason is that the office could receive and send away mail matter much more expeditiously when it had a frontage on four streets.

If the $400,000 or $500,000 which the building would cost cannot be appropriated now that matter would have to wait. But work on the building would not begin off hand if the money were voted. It would take time to get the site. There would have to be condemnation proceedings if property owners were exorbitant in their demands. Doubtless some would be. Condemnation proceedings are slow in reaching a conclusion sometimes, as was proved in the case of the Northwestern railroad.

If a site can be secured, a building will follow inevitably. The government would not allow the land to remain unused. So let us at least have an appropriation big enough to buy a block in the right place. If any money were left over that much less would have to be appropriated for building purposes.

DO THESE EVILS EXIST?

An open letter addressed to one of the evening papers deserves the attention of the police department. It alleges conditions among the 5 cent theaters which call for drastic correction, and if even approximately true should result in a much more careful and scrupulous surveillance of these popular resorts.

The conditions described need not here be repeated in detail, but the allegation that many of these theaters have what is termed amateur nights, when young aspirants are given opportunity to try their talents, indicates the possibilities of evil in this new institution. Immature girls, it is said, are thus tempted into surroundings unfit in many cases even for the mature and experienced, and the fact that these theaters are scattered throughout the city in reputable neighborhoods constitutes a serious menace unless they are kept under careful regulation.

The 5 cent theater, properly run, may be a source of clean entertainment and even instruction. But also it may be or become a plague spot. The recruiting officers of vice are too plentiful already in great cities. This should not be added to them.

It is suggested that the police department undertake an investigation of the 5 cent theater stage conditions, assigning reputable and reliable officers to the work. If action by the council in the way of new ordinances or amendments is required it should be taken before adjournment, but it is probable that the police department already has all powers necessary to adequate reform and proper permanent regulation.

THE JOHN WORTHY SCHOOL.

The agreement made between the bridewell authorities and the officials of the school board for improvements in connection with the John Worthy school is a temporary one. It does not mean that the plan to remove the institution to a more favorable environment has been abandoned. President Schneider intends to push vigorously his plea for a better site away from the neighborhood of the prison.

Such a move cannot be made with appropriations now available. It must be made another year. The school board owns land in Cragin, where eighty acres might be used for grounds for the Worthy school. If this location were determined on the needed buildings ought to be secured within the next few years without material difficulty.

While, therefore, the improvement plans are not what has been hoped for by those who have special interest in this school, they mark a distinct advance. A temporary one story building will be erected to furnish additional facilities for manual training work. Another real need will be met by the employment of family officers, who will spend the day in the school and will do what they can to take the place of the parent.

The division of control between the school authorities during the day and the bridewell officials at night has never seemed a satisfactory one. It has served to emphasize the evil influence of the presence of the bridewell in such close proximity to the school. Any betterment in conditions is welcomed, but there will not be complete satisfaction until, in new and more inviting quarters, the institution has opportunity for far better work in saving boys for good citizenship.

MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

NORWAY'S prime minister, M. Knudsen, has created what may be described as a European sensation by declining to accept the grand cross of the Victorian order conferred upon him by King Edward on the occasion of his recent visit to the court of Christiania.

For a prime minister to refuse an honor of this nature from a foreign sovereign paying a state visit to his own ruler is absolutely without precedent in the annals of diplomacy. True, sometimes officials of minor rank have declined such distinctions on occasions of this kind because the grade of the order bestowed upon them was not sufficiently high to accord with their ideas of their own importance. But no such reasons prompted the Norwegian prime minister. If he declined the honor offered to him by King Edward it was, as he explained it, because his radical principles prevented him from accepting any order of knighthood.

Not the slightest bit of ribbon or insignia of any order is ever to be seen on the plain black evening dress which constitutes his official costume at all state and court functions, and in the monarchical countries of continental Europe, where virtually every public man is decorated with one or more orders, the appearance thus presented by Premier Knudsen is marked. Knudsen is an extremely capable statesman, and his advanced radicalism in politics does not prevent his being, in addition to a trusted constitutional adviser, also a warm personal friend of his king and queen, who both honor him for his strength of character. Edward VII. was not in the least offended by Knudsen's refusal to accept the Victorian order, and sent him in the place thereof a handsomely framed portrait, with an extremely complimentary autograph inscription.

Prince Frederick Henry of Prussia, eldest son of the late Prince Albert of Prussia, regent of Brunswick, and who was deprived not long ago by the kaiser of his command in the German army, owing to the unsavory scandals in which he had become involved, is evidently turning over a new leaf. For his conversion to the Roman Catholic church is announced, following, it is said, a preparation of several weeks for this change of creed. The emperor will have learned with mingled feelings of his kinsman's action. For, while on the one hand he will resent the prince's abandonment of that Lutheran church with which the fortunes of the reigning house of Prussia are so strongly identified, he will, on the other hand, feel relieved by the establishment of any new and efficacious check upon the tendency of Frederick Henry to disgrace his family. Converts are always particularly zealous in religious matters, and it may be that the prince's admission to the Roman Catholic church means the inauguration of a new and more honorable life.

The prince is enormously wealthy, having inherited not only a third of the colossal fortune of his immensely rich father but also some further millions of dollars through the recent death of his grandfather, the old duke of Saxe-Altenberg. He must not be confounded with his second brother, Prince Joachim Albert, who has not only been dropped from the Prussian army, but virtually banished from Prussia on account of his determination to wed the Baroness Liebenberg. The prince's father, the late regent of Brunswick, was a Lutheran of the most bigoted type, and the idea of his elder son becoming a convert to the Catholic church is enough to make him turn in his grave.

The conversions of members of the reigning house of Prussia to Roman Catholicism have been few and far between. The only instances, indeed, that I can recall, are those of Princess Marie of Prussia (mother of King Otto), who became a convert to Catholicism after her marriage to King Maximilian II. of Bavaria, and Princess Anna of Prussia, the widow of the late Landgrave Frederick of Hesse, and who became a convert to Roman Catholicism in 1901. The langravine's second son, Frederick Charles, is married to the kaiser's sister, Margaret, owner of the late Empress Frederick's château of Friedrichshof, near Homburg. It used to be asserted that the late Princess Frederick Charles, mother of the duchess of Connaught, and wife of the German commander to whom Bazaine surrendered Metz in 1870, had joined the Catholic church, and similar stories were current about Empress Augusta. But nothing was ever definitely known about the matter, and the fact remains that they were attended on their deathbed by Lutheran clergymen and were buried according to Lutheran rites.

Prince William of Sweden and his Russian bride have been simply overwhelmed with gifts, on the occasion of their marriage at St. Petersburg, the young Grand Duchess Maria Paulowna having been magnificently dowered, not only by her father, the Grand Duke Paul, who is exceedingly wealthy, but also by her aunt, the widowed Grand Duchess Sergius, who has brought her up since early infancy as her own child. In fact, Maria Paulowna's own mother died when she was so young that she can be said to have really never known any other mother than Grand Duchess Sergius, who, being childless herself, has centered all her maternal affections upon the two children of her brother-in-law, Grand Duke Paul.

Grand Duchess Sergius has likewise announced that at her death her immense property will be divided between Maria Paulowna and the latter's only brother, Dmitri Paulovitch, and has, moreover, presented to her niece, among other things, her beautiful palace at St. Petersburg. This palace formerly belonged to the princely house of Belosselsky, one of whose members is married to the daughter of that Gen. Charles Whittier who succumbed on Thursday last to apoplexy on board the Mauretania while off Sable island. The palace is one of the most beautiful ones in the Russian capital, being both externally and internally of the purest Louis XV. style, while the Grand Duke Sergius and his wife, after purchasing it from the Belosselskys, lavished large sums in its further embellishment.

Besides all this, the young Princess William of Sweden has received not only the dowry which is paid by the czar to every grand duchess on the occasion of her marriage, but also the yearly allowance to which she is entitled from the imperial civil list, while the emperor has likewise undertaken to build and completely furnish and equip a palace for the young couple in Sweden.

The wedding has been signalized by the restoration of the bride's father, Grand Duke Paul, to some of his former honors in the Russian army, of all of which he was deprived when he married the divorced wife of his former aid de camp, the unsavory Gen. Pistohlkors. In fact, Paul's presence at the wedding ceremonies was one of the features thereof, indicating his reconciliation with his relatives. But his morganatic wife, who has received the Bavarian title of Hohenfelsen, still remains excluded from Russia, by order of the czar, and has on two memorable occasions been turned back by the police at the Russian frontier. Grand Duchess Sergius, aware of all the painful and almost tragic circumstances connected with the death of Grand Duke Paul's first wife, has always entertained the most pronounced aversion for her brother-in-law. This antipathy was still further increased by his scandalous marriage to Mme. Pistohlkors, upon whom he bestowed some of his mother's most famous jewels, a full year before the woman had been freed by divorce from Gen. Pistohlkors. The grand duchess, however, would not allow her own feelings to interfere with the complete happiness of her favorite niece and adopted daughter, or with the financial arrangements made for her future, and on this ground only consented to meet Grand Duke Paul at the wedding.

NEWS OF THE THEATERS.

The Witching Hour and Mr. Thomas.

Being numbered among the progressives—being named their leader, in fact, by many who are in touch with the theatrical situation in America—Augustus Thomas, in all likelihood, will be one of the first of native dramatists to insist that the players engaged in presenting his plays shall deny themselves the sweet privilege of the curtain call.

And yet it seems almost a shame to think of it, because the curtain speech—to which the curtain call is a necessary preliminary—is one of the best things Mr. Thomas does. Take last night's performance of "The Witching Hour" in Powers' theater as an instance. Mr. Thomas was again the feature of the occasion, though he did not appear until the players, singly and en group, had marked time just back of the footlights and bowed themselves completely out of the third act pictures in which but a second before they had been important and impressive figures.

The curtain calls themselves were wrong. Curtain calls are wrong in any play, and particularly in any serious play, whenever they split the action of that play into sections or in any particular interfere with the preservation of the continuity of an auditor's interest in the proceedings. That much has been known and commented upon periodically for years, though we never have gotten just to the point of being ready to stand right up and demand their abolishment.

We even permitted the New theater to proceed with them, and never once have scolded the Robertson players for stretching themselves in an inartistic line across the stage at every possible excuse.

Last night the curtain calls, to repeat, were all wrong—but the speech that followed them! It would have been a pity to have missed that, if not for anything that Mr. Thomas said, at least for the way in which he said it.

Our first dramatist has the art of complimenting without ostentation. There is always enough sincerity in what he says to take the sting out of whatever you may credit him with thinking. Therefore, when he tells you that whenever it has been possible for him to do so he has always given Chicago the first performances of his new plays, you feel he speaks the truth, though you know he may be fibbing. And when he tells you that Chicago is lucky to have so many nice people, on the newspapers and off of them, you bow low and nobody can be just certain whether or not you smile as you bow.

At any rate, Mr. Thomas last night gave his second exhibition of the season in turning the pertinent and graceful compliment as neatly and as easily as the plowshare turns the furrow in a fertile field, and by doing so he made the beginning of the second run of his excellent play practically as important as was the first, nearly four months ago.

The distinction of his presence was something, and the fact that he had taken enough interest in the Chicago company and the future of the play to come on a second time was something more. It proved that he was on the job, as it were, which means that the players are being kept to their task and not permitted to grow slovenly and self-sufficient, individually or collectively. And we may truthfully say it is high time some play director of Mr. Thomas' ability took such a personal interest in the western field.

Of "The Witching Hour" its recent series of successful performances in the Garrick make it quite unnecessary to add more than that it remains one of the significant dramas of the decade. Besides being a peculiarly interesting play of melodramatic tendencies and excellent comedy values, it offers as well a sincere and intelligent treatment of vitally interesting mental phenomena. It picks the tangled threads of a hundred new ideas out of the air and weaves them into an absorbing story. And though it may excite the pity of the excessively learned in the mysteries of the occult, it is without offense to any.

It is that healthy, hopeful combination—a play with ideas that stimulate the imagination without offending the intelligence. And with such plays the occasional technical slip, or apparent slip, of their author counts for less than nothing. To condemn "The Witching Hour," as some have been heard to do, because the hero hypnotizes a would-be murderer on a split second schedule seems as silly as to declare the Washington monument an insignificant shaft because some fool had hacked a piece out of a corner.

Last night's performance was, in the main, an improvement over the last one seen in the Garrick. William Morris, who continues as Brookfield, the psychic gambler, apparently has lost something of the extreme reserve that characterized his earlier performances. He was less stiff, therefore more natural; occasionally a bit preachy, but always finely earnest and convincing.

Amelia Gardner, whom one season playing the mother of the accused lad in this play will probably place among the few American emotional actresses of the first class, continues to lend her sympathetic and beautifully mannered presence to her several fine scenes, and Lawrence Grattan is expending oceans of affection upon the dear old justice. Perhaps he could stem the flood to some advantage.

The audience last night was of good size and decidedly attentive, and the play is probably back for a considerable stay.

The Hoyden Also Returns.

Another return engagement was begun last night at the other end of the loop. Elsie Janis, Joe Cawthorn, and "The Hoyden," one of the happiest of midseason events in the Illinois, came back to town and settled in the Studebaker.

Poor little Elsie has a cold, but she did all that she could and the crowd, which was large, appeared not to mind. Cawthorn—and, mark you this, Cawthorn without a bulbous nose, Hooray!—worked harder than usual, if that is possible, to make up for the star's loss of her four singing notes.

There may be better musical entertainments than "The Hoyden"—taking it from first curtain to last and figuring that you agree that Cawthorn is the best of the German comedians—but we know of but few. The piece itself is not written with any particular skill, but as entertainment so much of it depends upon Miss Janis and Cawthorn, and they are so admirably contrasted and so generously talented that the combination is irresistible.

The Janis imitations, which get better every month, cold or no cold, and the Janis enthusiasm were abundantly appreciated last night, and the encores were many.

BURNS MANTLE.

U. S. Singer Captures London.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, May 17.—The performance at Covent Garden yesterday introduced to London a new "Isolde" in the person of Miss Edyth Walker, an American singer, who proved herself the best interpreter of the character, vocally and histrionically, ever heard in this country. The musical critics are enthusiastic in praise of her. One says it is impossible to speak in terms too high of her impersonation. Another declares her "Isolde" a veritable revelation.

MRS. EDDY SAYS SHE IS WELL.

Christian Science Leader Announces That She "Merely Minds Her Own Business."

Boston, Mass., May 17.—[Special.]—Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy objects to current rumors that she is in ill health and the Christian Science Sentinel, issued yesterday, contains two announcements by her. One says:

"Since Mrs. Eddy is watched as one watches a criminal or sick person, she begs to say in her own behalf that she is neither; therefore, to be criticised or judged by either a daily drive or a dignified stay at home is superfluous.

"When accumulating work requires it, or because of a preference to remain within doors, she omits the drive, do not strain at gnats or swallow camels over it, but try to be composed and resigned to the shocking fact that she is minding her own business and recommends this surprising privilege to all of her dear friends and enemies."

HOLDS MOST MEN CHRISTIANS

The Rev. F. E. Hopkins Censures Methods of Selecting Juries.

"TRUTH NOT FEARED NOW."

Ernest Wray Oneal Defies Science to Combat Words of the Gospel.

The Rev. Frederick E. Hopkins in his sermon at the Pilgrim Congregational church yesterday morning disputed the statement made recently that only four men out of every hundred examined for jury duty would admit they were Christians. In part he said:

"The trick was probably in the way the lawyers examined these men. Lawyers have been at this sort of thing ever since they stood up tempting Jesus with the question, 'Who is my neighbor?'—not because they wanted to know but to tangle him in his talk.

"The fact is there are fewer men in this city who are not Christians in spirit than in any place on earth.

"There is a lot of rigmarole about our courts that only adds to inconvenience and expenses. Any honest man will get all he wants if a jury were selected from the first twelve men met in the street who understand English and can read and write."

Possibilities of Man.

The Rev. Frank Gunsaulus, speaking at the Auditorium in the morning, said:

"Christianity is the revelation of the possibilities of man. Where a few weeks ago in the country there was a mass of earth and seemingly nothing but mud, 'blue ran a flash across its face and violets were born,' so the love and power of God can change a man. Men fall in the heart, not the head, and civilization is the wedding of the temporal and eternal till the worth-while-ness of any and all effort is its relation to eternity."

Dr. Gunsaulus announced June 21 as the closing service of this season for Central church in the Auditorium.

Not Afraid of Truth.

The Rev. Ernest Wray Oneal in his sermon at the First Methodist Episcopal church declared that:

"We are not afraid of the discovery of truth. We urge mankind to read and study as well as to pray and testify. There was a day when men were afraid lest light from the stars would put out the sun of righteousness, lest the geologist's hammer would break the rock of ages, lest some new arrangement amid the strata of the earth would dislocate the cross of Christ.

"It is not so now. Let truth come from any source and it will fall in with and not darken the truths of the gospel."

LAETARE MEDAL CONFERRED AT NOTRE DAME UNIVERSITY.

Dr. James Charles Monaghan Recipient of Honor for 1908 at Silver Jubilee Celebration.

Notre Dame, Ind., May 17.—[Special.]—The silver jubilee of the Laetare medal was celebrated at Notre Dame today and at the same time the medal for 1908 was conferred upon Dr. James Charles Monaghan, this year's recipient.

In the morning solemn high mass was sung in the Sacred Heart church by President Cavanaugh of Notre Dame. The Rev. Father Crumley, vice president of the university, acted as deacon and the Rev. Matthew Schumacher as subdeacon.

The silver jubilee sermon was preached by the Rev. John Talbot Smith of New York City. He is among the noted priests of this country because of his invaluable services to the Catholic school on Lake Champlain of New York, his literary achievements, and his success on the lecture platform. After the exercises in the church were concluded, a reception of the medalists by the faculty and the senior class was held in the college parlor. At noon a dinner was served in the Brownson refectory. At 6:30 in the evening the university band gave a concert from the college steps.

The conferring exercises took place tonight. They were opened by an overture by the university orchestra. Five of the ten living Laetare medalists, including Dr. Monaghan, were present. They are Dr. John Murphy of Chicago, Dr. Quinlan of New York, Katherine Conway of Boston, and Timothy Howard of South Bend.

William J. Onahan took part in the services earlier in the day, but became indisposed and was unable to appear in the evening. Because of his absence Dr. Quinlan had to act as chairman. Timothy Howard gave the Laetare medal address, telling of its origin and its history.

PROMISES WELL FOR BENEFIT

Many People Applaud Musical Comedy at Auditorium.

HELP FOR CONVALESCENTS.

Receipts from Next Week's Performances Go to Tribune Camp.

That those who attend The Tribune summer hospital benefit performance of "In Honor the Mayor" next week will "get money's worth" was evidenced at the Auditorium theater yesterday afternoon and last evening. Crowded houses and enthusiastic receptions greeted the musical comedy. If the evident popularity of the piece with the public is any indication, there is going to be a melon cutting of luscious proportions for the sick women and children who will be sent back to health this summer in The Tribune camp for convalescents on Fox river, near Algonquin, Ill. Next week the receipts of all the performances are to be donated by the management to this charity.

The performances yesterday were directed by Harry Kelly as Deacon Flood, a part he created, and Trixie Friganza as Katrina divided the principal honors about equally. The deacon never was funnier and Katrina never more bewitching than they were yesterday. They captured the auditors, man, woman, and child. Miss Friganza was recalled repeatedly after her principal musical numbers, "A Perfect Lady" and "Take Me to the Ball Game."

They All Score "Hits."

Reine Davies as Daisy, a milliner girl, repeated the "hit" which she had made in the previous week, as did also Lora Lee as the young widow, Mrs. Vayne, Florine Sweetnam as Marjorie Vayne, and Madeline Marshall as May Flood, the deacon's daughter.

The company has a dashing, pretty chorus and the dancing was worth going to see. Mr. Kelly, Hugh Fay as T. Cholmondeley Prebble, an Anglicized native of Kankakee, did some eccentric dancing that convulsed the house and brought them back from the wings until they were too tired to shake a foot. Then there were five bewildering young women, known as the English high steppers, and three called the whirlwind dancers who were all of that and then some.

Popular Prices Prevail.

The music was supplied by a double orchestra led by De Witt C. Coolman.

During the series of performances for the benefit of The Tribune hospital, which begins next Monday evening, May 25, and closes the following Sunday night, there will be matinées Wednesday, Saturday, and Sunday afternoons. The prices will be 25 cents and 50 cents—no higher. At the evening performances 75 cents will buy the best seat in the house. Box seats will cost $1.

TAFT IS BACK FROM PANAMA.

War Secretary Upon Arrival in Charleston Says Canal Is Progressing Satisfactorily.

Charleston, S. C., May 17.—[Special.]—Secretary of War Taft arrived from Panama on the cruiser Prairie at noon and left this evening for Washington. He says work on the canal is progressing satisfactorily, and were the digging the only question to consider the task could be completed in five years. Health on the isthmus is good and labor conditions have improved. He said he felt, though he had been out of touch with the situation, that he was still in line for the presidential nomination.

Sewing on Lace and Beading.

When lace is to be sewn to thin materials such as muslin dresses or underwear of any kind it should be carefully and properly done to produce good results. Lace edging almost always has a stout thread in the selvage which serves admirably as a gathering thread. Pull this thread and stroke the gathers to make them even.

Roll the edge of the material and, holding the lace nearest to you, lightly hold the lace and edge together with the thumb and forefinger of the left hand and overcast the two together with firm and even stitches.

To let in lace insertion to form a design first baste the insertion on the right side of the material in the desired design and hem it down on both its edges. Cut the material from underneath the lace, leaving a narrow hem or seam on each side of the lace. Crease the seam back from the lace toward the material and turn as for a hem and overhand it, taking stitches close to the line of the hemming.

Beading often is used in underclothes for running ribbon through to make gathers and thus form the necessary fullness. Roll the edge of the material and then roll the muslin edge of the beading close to the embroidery and overhand the two together.

Beading is often put in with a French seam. The first seam should be taken on the right side and far enough from the edge of the embroidery so that when the second seam is taken it will bring it close to the embroidery edge. This may be done by hand or on the sewing machine.

Soups.

DELICIOUS SOUP—Cook until tender two cupfuls of shelled and blanched peanuts, with a slice of onion and a stalk of celery; press through a sieve, reheat with one pint of white stock, and stir into a white sauce made of one-fourth of a cupful each of butter and of flour and a pint of milk. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

ALMOND SOUP—Cut four pounds of knuckle of veal into small pieces. Break or saw the bones into small pieces, add three quarts of cold water, and let cook just below boiling point for about four hours; then add one onion, sliced, two stalks of celery, chopped, a sprig of parsley, a tablespoonful of salt, and six peppercorn.

Let simmer an hour longer; strain, and when cold remove the fat and heat again. Cream together one tablespoonful of butter and two tablespoonfuls of corn starch; thin with a little of the hot soup, then turn into the soup, and boil for ten minutes. Add half a pint of cream, and season with salt and pepper to taste; then add one-fourth of a cupful of blanched almonds, pounded to a paste.

GREEN SOUP—Wash and pick quite clean a quantity of spinach; place it in a saucepan with enough salt, and when done squeeze all the moisture out and pass through a hair sieve. Dilute the pulp thus procured with some well flavored stock until it is of the right consistency. Make hot, add a squeeze of lemon and a dash of pepper, and at the time of serving put a pat of butter in the tureen.

HIGH SCHOOL TEACHER JOINS THE PROTEST AGAINST CATS.

Prof. E. E. Hand of Wendell Phillips Faculty Declares That the Animal Is a "Hypocrite" and "Pest."

Inspired by the dispute concerning the worth of the cat, another man has come out to denounce the animal as a pest and to propose a new remedy for its evil acts.

E. E. Hand, professor of zoölogy in the Wendell Phillips High school, declared yesterday that the cat is a great national nuisance and lawbreaker. Furthermore, he says that he is upheld in his position by the investigations of the biological survey of the department of agriculture and by all zoölogical authorities.

"The cat is a public pest," said Prof. Hand. "They are a menace to health, scattering fleas and disease. The cat is a parasite, lazy, spiteful, and capricious. I read the article that appeared in THE TRIBUNE on this subject to one of my classes and also read to them the law for the protection of song birds. The members of the class immediately brought in six native song birds that had been killed by cats.

"In my opinion the owner of a cat that kills a songbird should be prosecuted and fined just as is the man who goes out with a dog and kills them. The cat that is kept as a family pet, well taken care of, and confined to the home may be allowable. But for the great horde of cats that throng our alleys, killing birds, spreading disease, and keeping us awake nights, I can see no excuse.

"If either the cats or the birds must go let it be the cats. With their hypocritical pretenses done away with we may be able to get down to and solve the rat problem. This is no small matter, for government researches have shown that rats cause the United States an annual loss of about $56,000,000."

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Mordecai Brown of Indiana came as near as he could, and miss it, to tying the world's pitching record yesterday when he shut out Brooklyn, 5 to 0, with only one safe hit.

That hit was a single and cut no more figure than a mosquito on a rhinoceros' ear so far as Brooklyn was concerned. But it did serve, inconsequential as it was, to spoil what otherwise would have been perfection itself, for not another visitor reached first base by hook, crook, or bobble during the entire game.

Only twenty-eight men faced Mordecai in nine innings, twenty-seven dead ones and that one live one who bagged the hit. It was Bill Bergen, the elongated backstop, who played the spoiler's rôle, and to make it worse Bill's hit was something of a scratch. It was clean enough in itself, for no one got near it, but it was made reaching for a high, wide ball which Brownie intended to waste. If the three finger star had kept the ball over the plate for Bergen he might have done no more damage to perfection than in his other two times at bat.

Perfect Support by Cubs.

Even more perfect than the pitching of Mordecai was his support, for nothing marred that. Everything within reach was coppered by the Cubs and only twice was there even a near error on their part. Chance had to save Steinfeldt a wide throw once and did it with a lone hand catch. Once Evers fumbled a grounder and had to hustle to throw his man out. For the rest of the way every chance was accepted as smoothly as water runs over deep rocks. Not a man was allowed to walk and four were set down on strikes.

Rucker has been one of the successful pitchers on Brooklyn's staff this year, but his southpaw curves were slapped hard at times by the Cubs. In one round, the fourth, it looked as if he was going to be driven off the map. That was when four straight hits, two of them for extra bases, were pounded out in rapid succession. But he stopped that rally and was effective both before and after, his unsteadiness being his worst enemy, as five bases on balls attest. But for Lewis' boot and his own bum throw, Rucker would have held the Cubs to one run outside the fourth inning. Brown not only starred on the slab, but with the stick as well. He shared with Hofman, Tinker, and Evers the batting honors, each having two hits to his credit. Kling woke the sleepers with a ringing triple in the middle of the swatting session.

Chances to Score Escape.

The Cubs did not improve all their chances to make runs, a break in the eighth inning, when Evers overran second with Brown ahead of him on Sheckard's hit, costing a possible chance to increase their score. In every inning except the fifth one or more of Chance's men got on the bases.

Sheckard walked and stole with one out in the first, but Maloney ran back and pinched Schulte's long drive and Rucker stopped Chance's bounder. In the second Hofman singled over third with one gone and was called out stealing second. Kling skied.

When Lewis fumbled Tinker's bounder at the start of the third, giving Joe his life, the Cubs broke the goose eggs. Brown's bunt to Rucker was hard enough to have forced Tinker at second, but Rucker hurled it wildly and Lewis missed a one handed spear. The ball rolled into left field, letting Joe to third, and he scored when Evers foxily dropped a little fly into short left center. There was no one out yet, but when Sheckard tried to sacrifice he fouled out instead. Sheehan made a rattling play on Schulte's slow grounder retiring Frank. Chance was passed, filling the bases, but everybody perished when Maloney camped under Steinfeldt's skyscraper.

Fun for Cubs in the Fourth.

The most fun came off in the fourth. Hofman started it with a short fly to left, which fell safely. The visitors played Kling for a bunt, to advance Artie. Instead John walloped a mighty fly into the farthest corner of right field and sent Hofman all the way home, making three bases himself before Lumley got the ball back. Tinker got in line with a swat to left for two cushions, on which Kling registered leisurely. Still there was none out, so Brown was up to sacrifice. He caught the Brooklyn infield twisting itself all out of shape to get Tinker at third, so pushed his bunt through where the shortstop ought to have been and Tinker scored all the way from second on it. Some bunt. Evers tried to chop another hit into short left, but Lewis got under it. With that Rucker steadied himself and struck out Sheckard. Schulte's fly ended the comedy.

The Cubs scored their last run in the sixth and wasted one at that. Kling led off with a walk and Rucker broke up the hit and run play by pitching a ball Tinker couldn't reach. The result was Kling's demise at second. Then Rucker pitched one Joe could hit and it shot into center for a single. Brown struck out but Tinker stole second and scored on Evers' single to right. Sheckard flied out.

Brown Nailed at the Plate.

Two were gone in the ninth when Brown pickled his second hit, a drive over second base. Evers was passed and Sheckard followed with a fast bounder, which Lewis partially blocked behind second. Evers thought the ball went through and that Brown would score. Brown stopped on third and they had Jack trapped off second. Mordecai tried to save it by starting for home, but Lewis cut him off and finished the inning.

Brooklyn was retired three in a row for two innings, and there was one out in the third when Bergen performed the lone single, which attracted little attention at the time. Forgetting for the instant Bergen's reach, Brown handed him one high and outside the plate. Bill reached and met the ball with his stick. It caromed off safely over Evers' head as he ran back toward center. Rucker's out by way of Evers put Bergen on second, and he was there when Hummel flied to Hofman.

No Chance for Brooklyn.

From that time on the procession of dead ones was unbroken when Brooklyn was at bat. When the eighth inning was passed successfully every one was rooting for Brownie to escape with only one man reaching first. He took no chances with high balls on Bergen, first up in the ninth but fed them across the plate and Bill struck out. Manager Donovan sent Burch to bat for Rucker, hoping to break the spell, but Schulte gathered in Burch's fly. As Hummel hit a soarer to center, every one let out a yelp of joy, then held his breath for thirty seconds. It seemed that long before that fly finally came down into Hofman's waiting paws. Score:

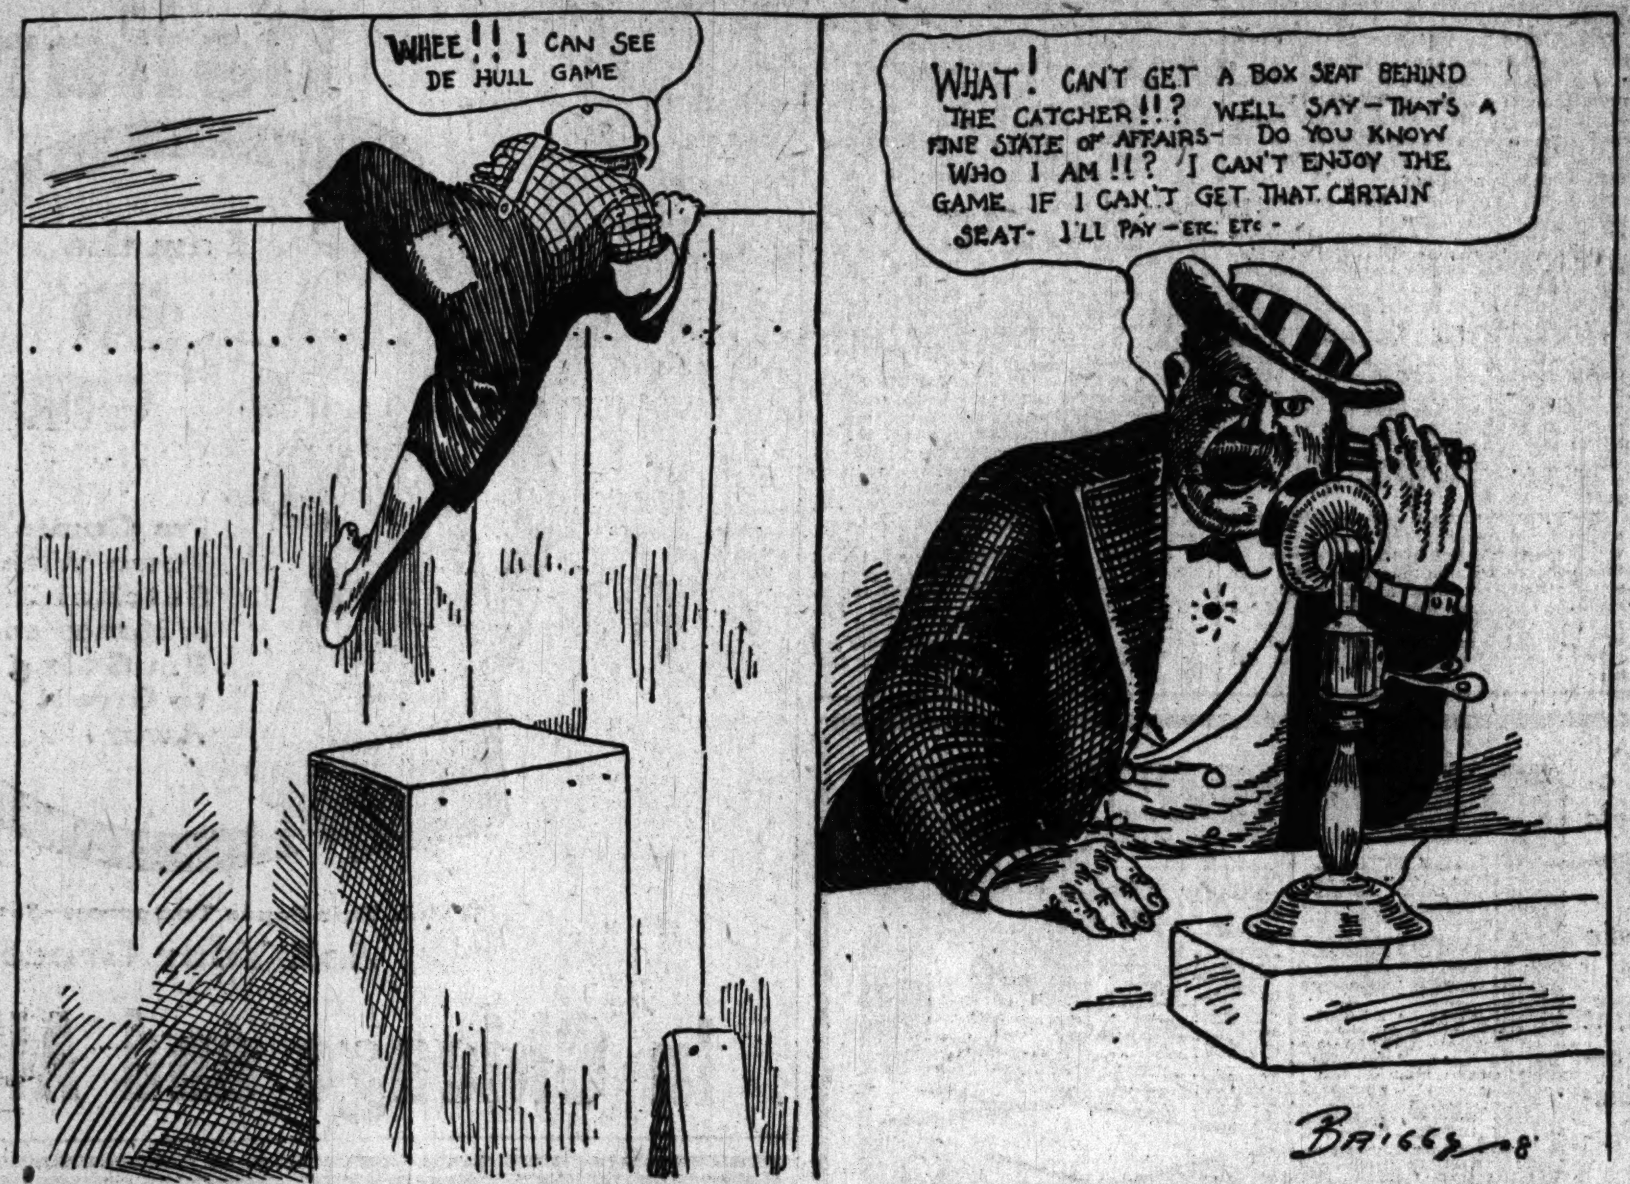
A REAL FAN AND OTHERS.



NOTES OF THE CUBS.

Brooklyn again today.

It's up to Overall or Fraser to win the final game from the Dodgers.

Did somebody say the Cubs were worrying about Mordecai Brown's arm not being "right"?

Pattee almost shared with Bergen the honor of getting to first base. Evers fumbled his grounder in the eighth and the ball bounded away, but by a great hustle Jack got it in time to retire his man.

Rucker struck out Schulte with three successive pitched balls of exactly the same kind in the seventh. Frank let the first two alone, then took a swing at the third one and missed it.

Over $8 was added to the Chadwick monument fund by the penny contribution boxes in the last two days at the Cub park. Saturday's count was $2.67 and yesterday it was $5.55.

Sheehan won some laurels by tearing over and picking a foul fly off the heads of the front row of box holders back of third in the fifth inning. It stopped Steinfeldt's time at bat.

Chance opened the fifth with a line drive which went straight into Jordan's mitt. That was the only round in which no Cub reached first. Steinfeldt fouled and Hofman popped out.

After the Cubs double crossed the visitors so successfully on anticipated bunts in the fourth inning the enemy's infield stuck more closely to its regulation shape. With men on second and first and none out Brooklyn plays its third baseman in for a bunt and lets the shortstop cover third for a possible force out. That gives the runner on second all kinds of chances for a start, and also makes a sharp hit or bunt almost certain to go through the big hole. Most clubs have the shortstop hold the runner as close to second as possible and let the pitcher field bunts toward third. But Rucker isn't much of a fielder.

With Herman on second base and McCamment on first and nobody gone, Hill bunted a pop fly and Pickett called "infield fly." Evans slipped going after the ball, which hit the ground, both runners advancing. Hertel picked up the ball, threw to Haisman at second, who touched McCamment, and then threw to McNichols at third, who tagged Herman, completing a triple play. Score:

SENDING PITCHER TO SCHOOL.

Chappelle of the Memphis Club Coming to Chicago to Watch Cub Stars Twirl.

Memphis, Tenn., May 17.—[Special.]—For the first time probably in minor league history a pitcher will be sent to a major league at the expense of the minor to take lessons in the fine points of his position. William Chappelle of the Memphis team has the speed and curves necessary to make him a great pitcher, according to the Memphis officials, but lacks knowledge of how to use his assets. Manager Babb has decided to send Chappelle to Chicago for two weeks' schooling. The giant southerner, who is just 24 years old, will sit in the grand stand during games and try to make mental notes of the pitchers' actions.

BY CHARLES DRYDEN.

Washington, D. C., May 17.—[Special.]—There was little excitement of a blood curdling nature in the lines of the White Sox today. The morning opened hot with prospects of rain, and for the most part the athletes remained in their apartments.

Several times during the long, dry Sunday President Ban Johnson, in an electric auto, rode rings around the hotel where the White Sox are quartered. On these occasions Ban resolutely kept his face turned away from the athletes, who were planted along the edge of the hotel balcony like so many potted geraniums. At the least, this conduct seemed unkind. What Byron B. should have done was to come around in an electric derrick and lift the suspension of Timber Jones, but he never thought of that. Along in the cool of the evening Jones seated himself, pen in hand, and added another paragraph to the letter he will mail to Johnson at the close of the suspension exercises. From the way that letter is growing Timber will have to pay excess postage or send the missive by express.

While in the ring riding business Mr. Johnson, still an inmate of the same electric cab, whizzed some circles around another hotel where Joe Cantillon and his Nationals repose between games. On the whole Ban put in a busy day looking the other way while passing hotels that harbor athletes.

Gives Way to Bitterness.

The ruling of the national commission in the case of the Washington club vs. Anderson and Heydon has incurred the displeasure of the local manager. Every time Ban shot by in his electric derrick, Joe thought some bitter thoughts about the fines assessed against his club. He seemed to think the national commission should be composed of practical ball players, who started barefooted to learn the business. Whether or not the practical ball players should finish their diamond careers barefooted to make them eligible, Joe did not say.

Anyhow, we suggest a new national commission, composed of Tip O'Neil, Sam Crane, and Peck Sharp, with Jack Sheridan acting as secretary. All these candidates were practical diamond mechanics in youth.

Just then Ban Johnson ran another ring around the hotel in his go-cart, and Manager Cantillon said our suggestion sounded like a joke. The national commission is a serious matter with Joe, so we cut it out and he told a lot of the best ever hunting and fishing stories.

B. Sullivan continues to act as manager of the White Sox, but Jones gives out the news items. During a lull in Ban's ring running stunts around our hotel, Jones said probably he would pitch Smith tomorrow. Of course it is the luck of Smith, he holds a team to one or two hits and still loses. The polite piano mover hopes his ill fortune will change and that he will put the kibosh on the Nationals. White may go back at them in the last game of the series on Wednesday, and Altrock may tackle one of the combats. Walsh is being hoarded up with the idea of using him in two of the New York games. That team is cutting a deep gash these days and Jones wants to pit his strongest card against Griffith's men.

Split Even in Four Games.

So far on the road the Sox have split even in four games played and hope to do better from now on. The hot weather has set in here and if rain does not interfere the athletes should loosen up in all departments. Lack of practice has kept the players back to some extent, and they are a bit shy on hitting. Cantillon has a batting cage which he shares with the Sox and they go through a regular hitting exercise before each game. Parent plays daily with his throwing hand in bandages and does good work, despite that handicap. The injured hand bothers him most in batting.

Jones and Sullivan rammed into a romantic adventure last night. They were passing a stately mansion near the hotel when two women ran out and said a burglar was trying to break in. Bill and Timber lit candles and went on the trail. It seems a small boy who lives in the house had been locked out and was rattling the shutters to attract attention. But that is not the romantic part of the adventure. The stately mansion was occupied for years by the late Senator Mark Hanna and the Thaws lived there while the earl of Yarmouth was courting one of the girls. Sullivan is all swelled up over the part he played in the burglar hunt.

More hard luck overtook Smith today. Dressed up in the best of his four suits of clothes Frank hired a carriage at $5 per hour and went driving in the parks. He bowed to Admiral Dewey and President Roosevelt and on coming back found he had lost a $20 bill. In the same pocket were four $5 bills and a $1, but the $20 alone escaped. Smith does have the dodgastedest luck.

REPEATS HIS NO HIT RECORD.

Aurora's Boy Wonder Too Much for Elgin, His Team Winning by Four to One Score.

Aurora, Ill., May 17.—[Special.]—Heine Christensen, Aurora's 19 year old pitching wonder, let Elgin down without a hit today, Aurora winning by 4 to 1 count. It was the second no hit game the lad has pitched this year, Duluth being shut out by him without a hit or run early this season. A wild throw by Third Baseman Seabrook gave Elgin its only tally. Fancy Skating at Madison Garden.

Catering to the roller skating craze, professionals have been engaged for a week of fancy exhibitions at the Madison Gardens, beginning tonight.

Cub Pitcher Near Record.

Mordecai Brown

"Three Fingered" Brown missed by the narrowest possible margin yesterday performing the rare feat of shutting a team out without a hit and the much more rare feat of not permitting an opponent to reach first base. Only three times in major league annals has a pitcher kept a team from getting a man to first in nine innings, and only once since the present pitching distance was established. "Cy" Young did it in 1904 against the Athletics.

LIVELY WEEK IS PROSPECT FOR THE MAROON ATHLETES.

Track Meet with Badgers and Ball Games with Gophers and Purdue Are Scheduled.

Track and baseball athletes of the University of Chicago have a busy week in prospect with two baseball games and a dual track meet scheduled.

The track team will meet Wisconsin next Saturday at Marshall field in the first at home "big eight" meet of the season, while the baseball team will play Minnesota on Thursday and Purdue on Saturday at Marshall field.

The Maroons believe they can defeat the Badgers. Coach Stagg says his men must pile up a big score to atone for their defeat at the hands of Illinois last Friday. Illinois has defeated both Chicago and Wisconsin by close scores, and although practically out of the championship race, Stagg will drive his athletes through a hard week's training.

Capt. Quigley in the dashes, Merriam in the low hurdles and quarter mile, Schommer in the high jump, Jacobs in the pole vault, Garrett in the broad jump, and Shuart in the half mile are expected to take their events from the Badgers. Osthoff is feared in the weights and Stagg expects the points to be split in the hammer throw, discus, and shotput.

The baseball team, twice defeated by Illinois last week, will go after its games with Minnesota and Purdue in the hope of landing at least second place out of the "big eight" contest.

HUGO BEZDEK IS NOW A COACH.

Former Maroon Football Player Placed in Charge of University of Arkansas Athletes.

Mephis, Tenn., May 17.—[Special.]—Hugo Bezdek, former University of Chicago football player, has been appointed general athletic director at the University of Arkansas. He will coach football and baseball teams and track athletics in addition to having personal charge of the gymnasium. The university faculty created the position especially for Bezdek.

TRACK CHAMPIONS REACH HOME

Oak Park High School Athletes Bear the Banner and Many Medals Taken at Champaign.

Oak Park high school's state interscholastic track champions returned yesterday from the downstate college town, where, on Saturday, they romped away with first place in the biggest interscholastic meet ever held in the west. Today the silk championship banner will be presented to Principal Hanna for use in the trophy room, while the medals won are said to be intended for the coeds at the suburban school.

Blind Athletes in Contests.

Columbus, O., May 17.—In the telegraphic track meets held yesterday by eight schools for the blind in the first inter-school contest, Illinois at Jacksonville took a big lead and it will require splendid work by the Western Pennsylvania school, whose meet was postponed by rain, to cut it out of first place.

PUNISHED FOR UMPIRE BAITING.

Monte Cross Suspended and Outfielder Neighbors Fined for Misconduct on Kansas City Field.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 17.—President J. D. O'Brien of the American association today announced that he has suspended Monte Cross, manager of the Kansas City team, for three days for umpire baiting, and that he has fined Outfielder Neighbors $25 for refusing to obey the umpire's instructions and unnecessarily delaying the game. Both offenses were committed at Kansas City on May 15 against Umpire Kane.

Moore Wins Roller Title.

Allie Moore won the three mile American-Canadian professional roller skating championship, the final heat of which was skated at the Riverview rink last night. Rodney Peters of St. Louis and Frank Bacon of McKeesport, Pa., skated in a dead heat for second. Leo Jones of St. Louis was fourth. The time, 7:55 2-5, was four and two-fifths seconds better than the previous record. In the skateoff for second place at one mile Bacon beat Peters. A series of benefit races for the skaters who failed to win money in any of the championships will be held tonight.

Sherman to Meet De Oro.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 17.—Frank Sherman and Alfred De Oro will start a three nights' match for the world's pool championship, beginning here tomorrow.

BIG CROWDS SEE RACING IN EAST.

More than 100,000 Persons Go to Belmont Park in Four Days.

SHOWS TURF HAS FRIENDS

People in All Walks of Life Form Assemblage at Track; Restore $2 Betting.

New York, May 17.—[Special.]—More than 100,000 persons passed through the turnstiles at Belmont park on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday last week. It was a greater attendance for that length of time than ever seen before at the magnificent racecourse, and helped to demonstrate conclusively that the turf, in spite of the agitation that has been going on since New Year's day, is not entirely without friends.

A visit to the big track on Saturday disclosed the fact that in the assemblage of more than 35,000 persons were men prominent in all walks of life. Financiers, judges, lawyers, doctors, railroad presidents, politicians, artists, actors, architects, contractors, tunnel builders, theatrical managers, playwrights, real estate promoters, mining engineers, brokers, bankers, dentists, merchants, restaurant keepers, hotel proprietors, and business men of all sorts were there, either in the clubhouse or in the grand stand.

As thousands passed through the clicking turnstiles it was noted that each man and woman was well dressed, sober, clean, and apparently respectable. There wasn't a shabby visitor to be seen anywhere and all the crowd appeared to have money. Hundreds of dollars changed hands on the result of each event. Not an arrest was made during the afternoon, not a crook of any known record was permitted to pass within the gates. A state senator said:

"Why doesn't the governor take a trip to Belmont park and look over the situation, just as several state senators have done? Perhaps he would find that anti-racing legislation has more real live opposition than he imagined. Racing has powerful friends, involves millions of dollars, and provides innocent amusement for thousands of New Yorkers who reserve the right to spend their own money in their own way."

In restoring the $2 bet limit in the big ring the bookmakers acted on their own responsibility.

There will be some splendid racing this week if the weather remains fine. On Tuesday the Crotona handicap at six furlongs will be run. Jack Atkin has received top weight of 137 pounds, which is proof that Vosburgh thinks he is the greatest racehorse in training now. Roseben is asked to carry 130, but even with twenty pounds less it is doubtful if he would have a chance.

On Wednesday the Bouquet selling stakes, for 2 year olds, at five furlongs, will be run. The Pocantico stakes, for 3 years old, at a mile and a sixteenth, will be decided on Thursday, while the Claremont handicap, at six and a half furlongs, will be run on Friday. Saturday's card will include the Juvenile stakes, for 2 year olds.

FASTER TRACK AT LOUISVILLE.

New Layer of Top Soil Explains the Making of New Records at Churchill Downs.

Louisville, Ky., May 17.—[Special.]—The feature of the spring race meeting has been the smashing of track records at Churchill Downs. This condition has been due not so much to the superior lot of horses running as to the fact that a new layer of top soil has hardened the course.

Two stakes are to be decided this week, the Louisville steeplechase over the full course on Wednesday, the Frank Fehr Selling stakes at one mile, and the Gentlemen's cup race on Saturday.

C. E. Hamilton leads the owners in amount won, with George J. Long in second place. V. Powers has a long lead among the jockeys.

The public has taken kindly to the pari-mutuel system of betting and both the machines and the auction pools are liberally patronized. It was officially announced during the week that Latonia would introduce the system during the summer meeting.

CHANCE TO RACE IN ARKANSAS?

Report Reaches Memphis of Possible Action by the Legislators in Special Session.

Memphis, Tenn., May 17.—[Special.]—Should the legislators in Arkansas answer the call for a special meeting at Little Rock on Monday an attempt may be made to repeal the Amis anti-race track law, which knocked out betting in all forms on race tracks in that state. This report reaches Memphis from Hot Springs. The statement is made that sentiment is now in favor of short winter or spring meets for the plant at Hot Springs.

Good Horses in Seattle Stakes.

Stake books for the summer race meeting of the Kings County Fair association at Seattle were received here yesterday. The meeting opens June 20 with M. Nathanson, formerly of Harlem, as secretary. The principal event is the Exposition handicap with a value of $5,000. The class of entries is better than ever before at Seattle.

MARKSMANSHIP IS HIGH CLASS.

Flewelling, Johnson, Clancy, Pugh, and Marshall Do Good Work in Gun Club Shoots.

High class marksmanship was displayed yesterday in the Chicago Gun club events, and in one match a perfect score was registered.

Flewelling won out in the Board of Trade handicap cup shoot with twenty-five clays from the eighteen yard peg. Johnson headed the list in the Chicago Gun club challenge cup shoot with only one miss out of twenty-five targets, while Pugh did equally as well in the distance handicap. Clancy, Pugh, and Marshall tied in the class shooting from scratch with forty-eight hits each.

PAPKE EASY FOR KETCHEL?

Stanley Says Bill Swings Too Much for a Clever Fighter.

UNHOLZ AFRAID OF NELSON?

Bat Asserts He Is, in a Heated Argument with the Boer.

San Francisco, Cal., May 17.—[Special.]—Stanley Ketchel, western middleweight, announces he will leave on Tuesday for Milwaukee, where he expects to fight Billy Papke about June 4. He has had no word from Manager O'Connor, who is already in the east, but is anxious to visit his people in Michigan, and thinks the trip will more than cover his expenses. While Ketchel would prefer a twenty round fight with Papke, he has seen the Illinois man in action and thinks he will have an easy time beating him. "Papke swings too much," he explained.

Batling Nelson and Boer Unholz had a verbal encounter in a café last night. Nelson was angry because the Boer had deposited $1,200 to cover a $5,000 side bet. The Dane suggested a fight on Decoration day, and when Unholz refused, because he said it was too soon, Nelson taunted him with being afraid.

"I'll tell you what I'll do," he added to Rudolph. "I will fight you in a back room, and if I don't stop you in ten rounds you can have $1,000." Whereupon he flourished currency.

"I am no barroom fighter," Unholz replied, and the incident closed.

The Boer will remain here for a week in the hope of hooking up with Nelson for June. If he fails he will go to Los Angeles to fight.

Promoter Sam Berger is to give his answer tomorrow as to whether he will offer suitable inducements for a fifteen round fight between Gans and Attel on June 4.

DISGUSTED WITH TOMMY BURNS

British Sportsmen Think He Is Afraid to Meet Johnson, Judging from Terms.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, May 17.—British sportsmen now are utterly disgusted with Tommy Burns, who till recently was feted and pelted by all hands with good purses, equitable terms of division and other conditions. Burns cannot regain standing here until he meets and beats the colored man. Unless he does so soon it may be too late under any conditions even if his demand for a $30,000 purse were granted.

It is doubtful if the public could be persuaded to pay money to see the match. Any match under such terms immediately would be stigmatized as a put up job. Lord Lonsdale, a typical British sportsman, said:

"Any arrangement giving Burns $30,000 is utterly absurd and contrary to the interests of boxing. The fact of his adhering to these sums shows he is frightened to meet Johnson."

TWO MATCHES DECIDED.

Clan-na-Gaels Defeat Emmets and Rangers Take a Game from O'Connells.

The Clan-na-Gaels and the Chicago Rangers were the winning teams in the Gaelic football matches yesterday at Forty-seventh street and California avenue, the former defeating the Emmets, 10 points to 6, while the Rangers came from behind in the last half and trimmed the O'Connells by 2 goals and 3 points to 3 points.

A crowd numbering 2,000 witnessed the matches, which were close, especially in the second periods. The teams played good ball at all times and are rapidly getting into shape.

In the first contest the Clan-na-Gael forwards completely outplayed the opposing defense and ran up 9 points with the greatest ease. It was well for them they did, for their own defenders were all the time in trouble with the Emmet attack, and five points were scored against them during the first half.

In the last period, however, the defense of both teams had an easy time, as their opponents were tired from their exertions at the beginning, and the best either team could do was to score a single count. Lineup:

Clan-na-Gaels [10].		Emmets [6].

The Chicago Rangers proved better stayers than the O'Connells and won their contest by scoring heavily during the last few minutes of the game. At the half the O'Connells were in the lead 2 points to 1, and made it 3 to 1 shortly after the last period began.

The Rangers, however, were in the better condition and improved rapidly, while the O'Connells tired. The latter made a desperate stand in front of their goal and massed the greater portion of their men there in an endeavor to hold the lead they had established. But the Rangers bored in well and secured two goals in rapid succession—following these up with a pair of points just before the whistle blew. Lineup:

Campbell R's	3	3	7	Campbells	0	8	0

Coal City added two more points to its total in the Spalding cup series yesterday by defeating the Campbell Rovers 2 to 1. Hyde Park, which was tied with the Scotchmen, went ahead of them by beating the Woodlawns 4 to 0. The Pullman-Campbell match was not played, owing to a misunderstanding as to the grounds.

Coal City found the Campbell Rovers their hardest victims of the year in their return match at the west side driving park, the Miners getting a 2 to 1 win when a draw would have been a more fitting ending. The Rovers' defense was exceptionally strong, but the forward work was loose. The miners played their usual steady game. Lineup:

With four of their regulars out, the Hyde Park Blues defeated the Woodlawns, 4 goals to 0, at Fifty-second street and Cottage Grove avenue. The Woodlawn attack, ragged as it was, penetrated the Blues' defense often enough to have scored several goals, but the essential kick never was forthcoming. Lineup:

The Hibernians maintained their clean record in the Jackson cup series by beating Sherman Park 2 to 1, while the Macduffs climbed at the expense of the Hammonds, winning 4 to 2.

Although the Hammonds sustained defeat, they showed improved form over their first match with the Scotchmen. Lineup:

YALE PROFITS BY A RECOUNT.

Freshmen Meet with Princeton Is Found to Belong Rightfully to the Blues.

New Haven, Conn., May 17.—[Special.]—Yale freshmen are now declared to have won the dual track meet with Princeton 1911 which was held a week ago. Princeton scored six more points than Yale, but it has since been learned that the biggest individual winner for the Tiger "cubs" was a graduate of Hobart college. His points thrown out give Yale 1911 the meet.

All Yale is happy because the star pitcher, Arthur Merritt, has been notified by the faculty that he has practically made up his scholarship deficiencies. He expects to clear himself completely and join the baseball squad in time for the games with Harvard and Princeton, which will begin on Memorial day. Merritt is regarded as the best intercollegiate pitcher in the east, with the possible exception of Heyniger of Princeton.

PROMISE HILL RUN, RAIN OR SHINE.

Motor Club Will Hold Its Auto Climb Event Today at Algonquin.

CARS OUT FOR PRACTICE.

Fast Time Reported by Experts on the Scene Awaiting Test in Big Contest.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Algonquin, Ill., May 17.—[Special.]—With the most profound belief in the powers of the weather man, but hoping that this time he is wrong in his prediction of showers tomorrow, a small army of motorists is resting here tonight awaiting the third attempt of the Chicago Motor club to run off its annual hill climb which is set for tomorrow.

To be frank, it looks as if the weather man has it doped out right, for at supper time tonight the sky had the mottled look that generally betokens rain. However it may stay clear, but the motor club people are not quaking in their boots for they have learned by experience that it does not take much sunshine to make the hills fit for climbing purposes.

It is unfortunate that the weather cannot remain settled for with a record entry list and nearly every one of the star hill climbers in attendance there is every reason to believe the meet would be one of the most brilliant in the country, if not in the world. The motor club people say they will make the attempt to run tomorrow, even if it does rain. The scheme is to take the hill that is in the best shape and run both climbs on it.

Tonight the hills are in grand condition, hard as nails, and it would seem it would need a deluge to make them unfit for climbing tomorrow. There was no practice allowed until 5 o'clock. Then a dozen cars burned it up Phillips hill. Among those out were the White and Stanley steamers, the Knox Premier, Stearns, Diamond T., Thomas-Detroit, Wayne, Overland, and Tincher. The Knox and Diamond T. showed great speed. It was predicted they would make a strong showing in their respective classes. The Tincher looms up a dark horse, while the White looks good in the big free for all.

Walden Shaw in the Premier devoted most of his time to Perry Hill, while G. F. Sulzberger in the Stearns was reported moving strong. A few drove out from Chicago today, but the roads the other side of Elgin were so rutty as to make the going hazardous. The only ones to come through this afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Hay and Thomas J. Hay Jr. in a Ford roadster who reported the roads miserable.

CROSSING CONTINENT IN AUTO.

Murdock Family Reaches Chicago on Way from Los Angeles to New York.

Eastward bound on the first transcontinental tour ever undertaken by a private owner, the Packard touring car with J. M. Murdock and family aboard, pulled into Chicago last night after a grueling drive of twenty days from Los Angeles. The journey has been a continuous string of easy stage running, devoid of night travel, with rests on Sundays. The Murdock family, seven in all, including three women, left Los Angeles on April 24, with New York as the objective point. The family homestead is at Johnstown, Pa.

From Chicago the tourists will go to Cleveland, Pittsburg, and Philadelphia. The party expects to arrive in New York next Friday night.

CROP OUTLOOK IS BEARISH

Wheat Works Lower on Lack of Outside Buying Stimulus.

WET WEATHER FIRMS CORN.

Higher Prices Scored on Short Covering; Oats Trend Is Downward.

Excellent crop conditions have dominated the wheat situation the last week. Overshadowing all other factors, the bearish prospects for a big crop of winter wheat, with ideal conditions prevailing in the northwest, where there has been a substantial increase in acreage, have discouraged outside buying and left the market to the tender mercies of the local professionals who shifted to the selling side of the market. Bullish statistics have been disregarded or considered discounted by the price of the current option. Prices for the week showed declines of 1⅝@5⅝c, the May being the weakest and showing a sensational decline.

Country a Free Seller.

The recent advance in the May to radically high figures, with an abnormal premium over the July, has encouraged selling of wheat on quite a large scale in the country and receipts here and in the southwest have shown a decided tendency to increase. At the same time the advance has neither encouraged speculative buying by stories of scarcity of wheat or brought any orders for cash wheat. Considerable wheat has been shipped from here to the east, but the general demand has not improved and millers are offering to resell wheat to local dealers. While theoretically the reserves of old wheat are light, there are no indications of actual scarcity.

Hessian fly damage claims and claims of injury from too much wet weather in sections have not been accompanied by buying orders and the trade has been skeptical as to there being any serious harm done to the winter wheat. Moisture has been amply sufficient to carry the crop through to harvest in nearly every section. About 15 per cent increase in acreage is estimated in northwest Canada, and the spring wheat area in this country will be considerably larger than a year ago.

Statistical Position Is Bullish.

From a statistical standpoint the figures certainly favor the bulls. World's shipments, while slightly larger than the previous week, are still under requirements abroad, and another big decrease in the visible is expected. Indications also point to a big loss in the domestic visible, which is already only a little more than half as much as a year ago. Primary receipts are running light, compared to a year ago, being 2,216,000 bu, compared to 4,024,000 bu for the same period last year. Clearances for the week were a little larger than the previous week, representing the wheat moved to the seaboard since the opening of navigation.

Foreign crop conditions are generally satisfactory, although a few complaints of drought were reported from Roumania. Liverpool and other foreign markets have been comparatively firm, and Liverpool September is practically on a full shipping basis compared to Chicago September. Buying of new wheat for July-August-September shipment has been moderate and mostly of a speculative character.

Corn Active and Higher.

Wet weather over the greater part of the corn belt, which has retarded planting, shut off country shipments, and restricted country offerings, has been the potent factor in corn and made for an active and higher market. Prices at the end of the week were 1⅛ to 1⅞@2c higher, May and July showing the greatest gains. Shipments have been large, and the Patten interests have been busy marketing the corn taken on delivery. Shorts both in the purely speculative market and those who had the corn sold for May shipment have been compelled to settle on the basis of the May price, and this has enabled the chief longs to unload big lines of the May at remarkably high figures. The export demand is practically nil, and clearances from this country were large, while those from Argentina were very large. The corn market at present is purely a domestic proposition, with the weather the chief consideration and the bulls at present in full control.

September Oats Are Firm.

Oats have sympathized with wheat for the most part and prices at the week end showed losses of ⅝@½ to 1⅝c except for the September, which was ¼c higher at the finish. There has been a fair class of buying going on the latter month, which has been credited to the principal longs. Scattered liquidation of the May deliveries and in old July have caused those months to weaken. Crop prospects are generally good, although some concern was manifested in regard to the prolonged rains. Receipts continue liberal and the country which was confidently asserted to have been bailed dry of oats last January still continues to furnish its daily quota of material to make deliveries with. Receipts at western points for the week were 3,413,000 bu against 3,622,000 bu a year ago. The cash demand has not been brisk, although large sales have been made.

Moderate Weakness in Provisions.

Prices for hog products have eased off moderately during the week, although there has at no time been any great pressure. The weakness in wheat, heavy receipts of hogs, and a disappointing cash demand have been the dominating factors. The outside trade has dwindled to small proportions and the lack of heavy buying more than excessive pressure has been mainly responsible for the weak tone. Packers have hedged considerable product in the pit, and shorts have bought on the dips. Hog packing at western points was 40,000 head more than for the same period last year. Hog receipts at the principal western packing centers for the week were 492,000, against 476,000 the previous week and 455,000 for the same week last year. Shipments of product have been rather light. Prices at the yards have been lower and the shipping demand has been less urgent. Closing prices were 22½c lower for pork, 15c lower for lard, and 10c lower for ribs.

Unsatisfactory Week in Live Stock.

After a most unsatisfactory week prospects in the cattle market were not exceptionally bright, and but few of the traders believed that prices would show any material rallying powers, while it was frequently predicted that much lower values would be established in the immediate future. Although Texas and southwestern cattle were reported to have hibernated particularly well, and the movement of them marketward would start earlier than usual this year, the first consignments of grassers caught the trade unawares and traders seemed to lose all control over prices. The fact that outside shippers have been moderate buyers here the last two weeks led some of the traders to believe that an improvement in the demand for finished steers from easterners was about due, but even though outsiders buy more freely it was not expected that the demand would be urgent enough to rally the market unless packers get into competition, and this they are not likely to do as long as they can get the grass fed cattle at a much lower level than the natives. Receipts of hogs here and at western points last week surprised every one, as instead of decreasing materially as expected arrivals here were only a few thousand lighter, while at outside points a large increase was recorded. Packers who supported the market a week ago, and again took a liberal portion of the receipts on Monday, thinking that arrivals would surely decrease, withdrew from the market after the first day, and refused to make any purchases except at their own valuation. Traders look for lighter receipts for this week, but do not expect prices to go much higher, as buyers now have liberal stocks on hand and all urgency will be eliminated from the demand. Sheep and lambs finished at the lowest prices of the week and traders predicted further declines unless receipts are greatly reduced.

ACTIVITY FEATURE IN STOCKS.

Volume of Trading in Wall Street Market Helps to Brace Up Sentiment.

[FROM THE NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

NEW YORK, May 17.—[Special.]—Last week's stock market was notable for the activity of the trading, Friday's volume exceeding that of any other day of the year thus far, and for the vigorous advance of securities to a new high level for the year. Near the week's close the average price of twenty active railroad stocks, these including only standard issues, stood at 102.56, against an average of 86.04 on Feb. 17 of the present year, and 81.41, the lowest point touched in the course of the so-called October panic, the quotation itself being made on Nov. 21.

To take an individual stock in order to trace more clearly the extent of the recovery, Union Pacific, which has been the market leader in the recent forward movement, has advanced from 100, where it sold on Oct. 26, to 147¼, its price on Saturday last. For the last fortnight the rise has been so unsupported by actual developments from day to day as to excite distrust.

Investors Still Cautious.

Wall street admits cheerfully enough the presence of conditions which make other people cautious and distrustful of Wall street's own behavior. There is no disputing, for instance, the dullness in the steel trade; the contraction in mercantile lines, the startling decrease in the volume of railroad traffic, the steel corporation's report, the records of commercial failures, and statistics compiled by the American Railway association showing 413,000 idle cars on the country's railroads, prove these various and unpleasant facts beyond successful denial. But Wall street turns from all this to consider the promise of months of easy money, the prospect of splendid crops, the convincing signs of an early disappearance of agitation and legislation against corporations, and the clearing of the political situation.

In the bond market there is to be found striking evidence of the gradual but certain improvement of sentiment among investors and, therefore, of the return of confidence. From the point of view of the financial community this is an important matter, for whether the activity and strength of the present bond market continues or not, it is a well established maxim of Wall street that general recovery in securities as well as in business must be preceded by a good bond market.

Gold Exports Now $25,000,000.

In still another respect the week was an interesting one. Before its close there had been engaged for export to Europe over $8,000,000 of gold, bringing the total shipments for the current movement up to $25,000,000.

The secretary of the treasury, within a little more than two months, must care for $64,000,000 of the maturing Spanish-American war loan, and further recalls of government deposits undoubtedly will be made. If, however, dull business continues to drive money into the banks the effect upon the exchange position of such withdrawals will be purely negative.

Improvement in London.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, May 17.—There has been marked improvement on the stock exchange business during the week in all branches, the leader in the upward movement being again the American market rise. The rise is not confined to a few descriptions, but extended practically over the whole list. Brokers at last are taking a cheerful view of affairs, orders from the outside public having come in in satisfactory numbers.

Paris Shares Optimism.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, May 17.—There was further improvement on the bourse last week owing to the predominating influence of continued good news from America. The bear clique, which hadn't ceased to predict fresh declines in American prices, found itself heavily engaged just before the fortnightly settlement and was driven to seek protection by heavy purchasers.

Body in River, Death Unexplained.

Dubuque, Ia., May 17.—[Special.]—The body of Charles Kruse, 60 years of age, a butcher of Dubuque, was found in the Mississippi river four miles below the city this morning. Kruse had been visiting friends in East Dubuque last Monday, and when last seen was standing on the dock waiting for a ferry boat to take him home. His death is unexplained.

ACTIVITY BY MARKET BULLS

They Discount Future and Expect Securities to Advance.

BEARS SEEM TO BE AT SEA.

Fear Opponents in Money Battle Have "Inside Information."

Unless unforeseen conditions should arise, the advance in the securities market may be expected to continue. Interests back of the present movement as a whole are the most important in Wall street, and are of the belief they can well afford to discount the future business activity of the country. These are some of their reasons:

They assume the candidate for the presidency on the republican ticket will be satisfactory and that his election will be assured.

They assume the crops will be above the general average.

They know money will continue to be cheap and there is no expectancy of money tightness in the coming autumn.

They know that the leading railroads of the country will be able to raise the money necessary for their needs, covering either a short or a long term of years.

They feel assured that when the expenditure of the money raised by the railroads begins it will revivify important industries and will establish the confidence necessary to a revival of business activity.

They assert that in the business future of certain railroads there will be developments calculated to give impetus to prices in the securities market.

Supplementary to the things indicated there is the knowledge that securities of the leading railroad and industrial companies have been distributed among investors; that there is no floating supply of stock of consequence, and that the technical position of the market hardly could be improved.

Shorts Helping the Bulls.

It certainly is an unusual market situation, which resolves itself substantially as follows:

For good and sufficient reasons—as the market has proved—a powerful group of railroad and banking financiers had information, and have it still, on which to begin and continue buying stocks in large volume. They have been buying for a definite purpose and for definite reasons. Meanwhile this limited group has been opposed in a market way by persons who could see no occasion for such an advance. But their lack of information has led them to short the market and thus make it easy for the bulls to continue the price advances. The sellers have been at sea, while the buyers have known precisely what they were doing. The shorts have put out lines only to find themselves forced to take them in at higher prices. Then a little later, thinking that the top has been reached, they have repeated the operation. The bears have been as much responsible for the rise as the bull interests. Meantime stocks continue to be distributed among investors, and but relatively few houses are on the buying side.

The money market affords continued signs of ease. Money and credits move uninterruptedly toward New York and Chicago. For several weeks exchange on New York at Chicago has been at a premium, and on some days above the shipping point. The demand for funds is limited. The state institutions in Chicago, for instance, increased their loans less than 1 per cent in three months. The loan expansion in New York has been moderate, and when it is considered that bonds and securities purchased are counted as loans, the smallness of the expansion is noteworthy.

Chicago Stocks.

In the Chicago money market the borrowers are relatively few, and the banks are particular about granting credit. The best names on commercial paper command a rate of 3½ per cent. The firm which is willing to pay 5 per cent is hardly wanted as a customer by the banks.

The Chicago stock market in the last week was active and few securities failed to respond to the improved sentiment that exists with reference to the future of the exchange. The buying of bonds was particularly brisk and prices advanced. Much interest is developing in the securities of the Chicago Railways company, both as to bonds and certificates of participation. The actual certificates should soon be issued, and then it is expected the business in them will be active.

The market for local bank stocks did not show a great deal of activity. Fluctuations were mostly in the bid and asked prices. For several weeks live stock exchange shares have been the feature in actual buying and selling. Following are quotations:

TRADERS OVERCOME WEATHER.

Numerous Mail Orders Received from Interior Points Help the Retail Business.

Adverse weather conditions restricted seasonable activity in distributive dealings and caused some irregularities in the local retail trade, but wholesale merchants received numerous mail orders from interior points, where temperatures were more congenial, and road men succeeded in booking numerous good sized orders for clothing, men's furnishings, footwear, and staple groceries for fall delivery.

A marked improvement was noted in the demand for coffees and higher prices were established for special choice blends. Sugar values were firmly held, while flour sold at a decline. Cotton goods, cotton yarns, wash goods, and silks were more firmly held. Collections were prompt and buyers showed more disposition to discount bills.

More active buying characterized the markets for lumber, quarry products, and structural steel, but no price changes of importance were made, and lumbermen were disappointed at the failure of prices to make substantial gains, as it was reported that stocks of yellow pine were being reduced at a rapid rate and certain specials were becoming scarce.

The expected decline in coal prices, which was to take place when Illinois coal miners returned to work, did not materialize, owing to the shutdown in Indiana. The change of scenes had no effect on the market other than that of maintaining values at the same level at which they had been held.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

A RARE SERIES OF SPECIAL EVENTS AND CLEARANCE SALES.

Great Half-Price Sale of Fine Laces: The Entire Stock of a Leading Manufacturer.

Such an event comes but once in a season. The purchase is in fact one of the most desirable and the values the most remarkable we have ever offered in a sale. The thousands of yards in all desired widths embrace Laces for every purpose—Trimming Laces, Insertions, Motifs, Galloons, Bands and Allovers. The designs could scarcely be more beautiful had they been carefully chosen from the best productions of a number of manufacturers. The collection contains many of the exquisite novelties in Trimming Laces such as are never found outside this section—Broderie a la Main, La Rosaline, Filet Antique, Dentelle La Boheme and Normandy Valenciennes. Many complete sets with allovers to match.

We emphasize the timeliness of this event, since great numbers will avail themselves of the savings in the purchase of fine trimming laces for bridal trousseaux, graduating dresses, blouses and house gowns. There is not one piece in the entire collection which is marked above half the regular selling price. Beautiful Motifs, Galloons, Edgings and Insertions in various widths are to be had at prices as low as 15c, 20c, 28c and 35c a yard, with quite a range of prices in the finer qualities. First Floor.

Women's Night Dresses: Six Styles Representative of the Unequaled Savings in the Great May Sale, $2.25.

No better lines from our immense assortments of styles in Night Dresses could be chosen to fix in the minds of new patrons this firmly established fact—the price-making supremacy of this section. The May Sale brings equally attractive special values to all other lines. The savings will be well worth every woman's time—to say nothing of the unequaled range of styles afforded for selection. The Night Dresses shown in the illustrations are made of fine nainsook, with round neck, Valenciennes insertion and three embroidery medallions and tucks. Valenciennes edge, beading and ribbon. French back and short flowing sleeves. special, $2.25. Fifth Floor.

Seasonable Silks Priced Extremely Low

Black Taffeta Silks, 26-inch, special, yd., 58c; 35-inch, special, yd., 85c, 95c and $1.10.

34-inch Black Peau de Soie, specially adapted for long coats, special, yard, 95c.

Initial Handkerchiefs for Men and Women at Attractive Prices.

Without regard for the notable lowness of the prices, the completeness of these lines would in itself be sufficient reason for giving them unusual prominence. The Men's Handkerchiefs have the popular width of hemstitched hems.

The Women's Initial Handkerchiefs embrace beautiful Swiss hand-hemstitched and Armenian lace edged Handkerchiefs with small initials in corner, also Irish hand-embroidered Initial Handkerchiefs at a wide price range 15c to $1.50. First Floor.

Women's Fine Leghorn, Chip and Milan Untrimmed Hats in Ultra-Fashionable Shapes.

This is a season in which pressed hats enjoy the height of popularity. Even the most exclusive milliners do not hesitate to make them the basis of their most expensive creations. Stimulated by this favorable condition, some of our foremost hat makers have produced lines of more artistic merit than ever before, and have been encouraged to produce hats of the finest quality and absolutely perfect workmanship. So great has been the demand that, although these manufacturers have worked up to their full capacity, the supply in certain lines is not plentiful enough to meet the present large demand. We have received some large shipments during the past week on orders which we placed long ago in anticipation of this demand, and our displays are now filled with an immense variety of shapes—representative of the best efforts of several of the foremost makers. Fifth Floor.

The shapes illustrated are types of the season's best developments, and while there are many others equally new and attractive in our extensive assortment, these serve to show the innovations in the crowns, brims and general effects. Only the finest braids are used this season, those most favored being the Leghorns, Chips and Milans.

We show at the right five typical shapes in fine French Chip, at prices from $6.75 to $8.75. In the center, five shapes selected from our line of Leghorns at 6.75, and at the left, a group of five styles in Milan Hats at $6.75.

The Leghorn hats are not the ordinary "flats" of bygone seasons, but are deftly transformed by the hat makers' skill into the fashionable shapes of today. These hats are only in the rich, soft yellow of the natural straw. The French Chips and Milan Straws are of extremely fine quality and may be had in black, white or the popular sun-burned shade.

Our semi-annual 20% Discount Sales of Ostrich Plumes, Paradise Feathers and Aigrettes continues through the month. This sale in connection with this offering of fine untrimmed hats is timely.

An extra force of experienced Millinery salespeople in readiness to show these lines and give whatever assistance is desired in designing proper styles of trimming. Charges for trimming are very reasonable.

Special Sale White Swiss Embroidered Dress Patterns, $8.50.

It would seem hardly necessary to suggest these patterns to mothers planning graduating dresses for girls and misses. They are in just the pattern most suitable in dainty lingerie dresses for this purpose, and the quality is far better than regularly offered at the price. Important—These Robe Patterns may be made up at home at slight expense—$8.50. Second Floor.

Boys' Bath Robes Reduced to $1.50.

This is a rare clearance value—the reduced price is much below the cost of importation. They are made of excellent quality, in blue or red stripes, cut amply full in sizes for 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. Only 100 at this reduced price—$1.50. Fourth Floor.

Atlantic Sheets and Pillow Cases.

The demand for Atlantic Sheets and Cases is so general that it would seem little need be said of their unequaled merit. Those familiar with the regular valuations of both Sheets and Cases will, at a glance, appreciate the rare savings these prices afford.

Atlantic Sheets:				Atlantic Cases:

Noblesse Corsets: Latest Paris Innovations.

The long graceful lines our new French models give to all figures are those which are being sanctioned by the foremost fashion critics. They are effectively worn with the latest modes either in tailored suits or costumes. The attainments of our Corsetieres in perfectly and comfortably corseting all figures are immeasurably increased by the lines of these new models. Fifth Floor.

For slender figures with which the high bust effect is essential there is an admirable Noblesse Model, with just sufficient length below waist to give the curving lines to the hips—the high bust fits closely to the form; the fabric is flowered silk batiste, elaborately trimmed with lace and medallions—$18.50.

A French model designed for full figures requiring extra length below waist in back and front and medium high bust—made of fancy silk brocade in white and dainty colors, trimmed with ruffles of lace and medallions—$20.00.

Another model designed for more serviceable wear is made of white coutil—well boned—made with extreme high bust and extra length below waist, giving long sloping hip, heavy garters attached front and back—$15.00.
